JORDAN PALES AT DEATH EXHIBITS

Shuts Eyes as Dead Wife's Clothes and the Knife Are Shown the Jury.

Chester Stanley Jordan closed his eyes in the East Cambridge Court to-day when the torn and slashed clothing of his wife, Honora, for whose alleged murder he is on trial, was held up for the inspection of the jury.

All of the clothing worn by the woman at the time it is claimed Jordan killed her was shown. With them were her wedding ring and some stickpins. Exhibited at the same time were the grim implements with which it is asserted Jordan cut the body of his wife to pieces.

To come later are more amazing exhibits—the tongue of the dead woman, that is to be made bear silent testimony against him, and the skull, with its deadly indentations, which it is asserted Jordan made with an iron.

Closes Eyes on Exhibits.

The crowded courtroom, in which there were many women, craned forward as the articles were held up for examination by Police Inspector Damery of Somerville. Jordan leaned back in his seat and shut his eyes. He appeared a trifle paler than yesterday. Never once did his eyes fix themselves upon the articles of evidence.

A mysterious woman was brought into the case to-day. It is charged that Jordan was on his way to meet her when he was arrested.

The name of the mysterious woman has not been made public. Jordan told the police, they say, that she lived in New Haven. General Bartlett, for the defence, wanted to cut out all reference to this woman, but District Attorney Higgins jumped to his feet and objected. He said that it would be used to show a motive for the murder. It has been brought out in the testimony of Sergeant Crowley and Captain Dugan that Jordan said his wife was jealous of him.

Defendant Listens Calmly.

Captain Dugan told to-day of his interview with Jordan after his arrest. It was taken down by a police stenographer. According to that interview, Jordan's recital of his fight with his wife, in which he knocked her down stairs, and his subsequent disencumberment of her body into thirteen pieces, was "cold."

With the partially disarticulated body in the kitchen sink, Jordan, according to Captain Dugan, said he prepared his supper and ate it in the kitchen. He cut from his wife's arm the tattooed word "Mizpah," the name of the steamer on which she was born.

Jordan listened calmly to the testimony. His father sat not far away, following

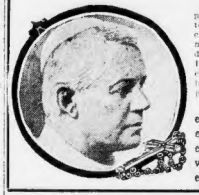
BREAK OF THREE CENTS IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, April 22.—There was a break of three cents in the price of July wheat when the market opened, sales being made at $1.13⅛ off to $1.11, compared with a closing spot of $1.14 on Wednesday. May held up fairly well, selling at $1.24⅞ to $1.23. There was almost a panic among speculators following a break all along the line.

INJURED BY BALE OF WOOL.

A bale of wool fell on Sturgis H. Peck while he was unloading a dray at the National Docks in East Boston to-day. He is on the dangerous list at the Relief Hospital in that district. He lives in the rear of No. 733 Broadway, South Boston.

Pope Opposes Woman's Suffrage; "She Can Never Be Man's Equal"



NEW YORK, April 22—A cable dispatch from Rome published in the Times to-day says that much comment has been caused there by an anti-feminist declaration made by the Pope yesterday in receiving a delegation of the Union of Catholic Ladies. His Holiness made a speech opposing the claims of women to make their voices heard in political matters. According to this dispatch, the Pope said:

"Woman can never be man's equal, and cannot, therefore, enjoy equal rights. Few women would ever desire to legislate, and those who did would only be classed as eccentrics."

STRONG PLEA IS MADE FOR M'CULLOUGH

Attorney John P. Feeney to-day made an eloquent plea for the acquittal of Councilman Leo F. McCullough, who was president of the Boston Common Council until January first last, when he addressed the jury which is to decide whether the young political leader is innocent or guilty of the charges of conspiracy and the larceny of $200 from the city.

After both the prosecution and defence had rested in the case which is being tried in the Superior Criminal Court before Judge De Courcey, Mr. Feeney pleaded with the jury to return a verdict of not guilty for his client. When the advocate was through there were tears in his eyes and several of the jury placed hands to theirs.

Lawyer Feeney accused the Finance Commission of seeking to convict McCullough because on the floor of the Common Council he had denounced certain members of the body, which was pending into the conduct of municipal affairs. Lawyer Feeney declared that the Finance Commission had not tried to learn if the Massachusetts reports were really at the McCullough home.

District Attorney Hill said in his plea for conviction of McCullough and Attorney James T. Cassidy, who is being tried with him on the same charges, that Feeney had insulted him time and again in his argument, and that the latter had dealt with eloquence rather than facts. He said there was positive proof of conspiracy and larceny.

Neither McCullough nor Cassidy was put upon the stand. After three witnesses were heard to-day, District Attorney Hill said: "We rest."

160,000 LOBSTERS BROUGHT TO BOSTON

Most everybody in Boston can have a "broiled live" to-day. The largest shipment of lobsters ever brought here came on the Dominion-Atlantic steamship Boston, from Yarmouth, N. S., there being 1,250 crates, containing 160,000 lobsters. The shipment weighed 200,000 pounds and was valued at $57,000.

DEATH PERIL FOR WOMEN OF MISSIONS

BEIRUT, April 22.—Five American women missionaries are in danger at Hadjin, in the vilayet of Adana, Asiatic Turkey.

One of them, Miss Lambert, has sent a message down to the coast asking for immediate help.

The women are entirely alone and defenceless.

The villages surrounding Hadjin are in flames, and Hadjin itself is invested by nomad tribesmen.

Messages from the interior are being suppressed by the authorities.

The situation in the country north, east and west of Alexandretta, arising from the anti-Christian outbreaks, is very serious. There have been massacres and pillage at Antioch and rioting at Bireilik. Aleppo is in a state of panic. Only 400 Turkish soldiers are in the city. Business is at a standstill, and there is every reason to fear a serious outbreak. The city is full of Bedouin Arabs, Kurds and Circassians.

The town of Kirikan, a short distance east of Bolun and southeast of Alexandretta, has been sacked and burned.

At Ayas, on the west coast of the gulf of Alexandretta, 418 murderers have been released from prison. They at once joined the mob and began committing depredations.

At Tarsus 100 persons have been killed, 800 houses have been burned, and there are to-day 5,000 persons without homes.

Several native pastors from Adana were killed while on their way to attend the district missionary meeting at Adana.

The Turkish government officials at Mersina have done everything possible to check the trouble. The result of their efforts was very limited, but in spite of this they deserve praise for their work.

Yesterday's estimate of 10,000 dead, which doubled the number previously given out, is now declared to be far too small.

Hadjin is eighty miles from Adana, in the northern part of the vilayet of Adana.

MAYOR SHEA DROPS A QUINCY OFFICER

Policeman John Bowton of Quincy was dismissed from the force to-day by Mayor Shea. He failed to appear at the hearing given him last night on charges pending since he disappeared in February. Bowton has a wife and two children living on Harrison avenue, Boston.

POPE'S VIEW ON SUFFRAGE STIRS WOMEN

Great interest was shown by prominent Catholics and leaders of the woman's suffrage movement in Boston to-day when a cable from Rome, published in the New York Times, was shown to them by the BOSTON AMERICAN. This dispatch quoted the Pope as saying:

"Woman can never be man's equal," said the Pope, "and cannot therefore enjoy equal rights. Few women would ever desire to legislate, and those who did would only be classed as eccentrics."

Another dispatch from Rome quotes the Pope on the same matter as follows:

"Those who wish to make woman the equal of man in all things and give her the same rights are assuredly in error. Woman mixed up in the agitations of public life would be the ruin of the family and society. Woman should be the companion of man, at the same time accepting his authority, an authority mitigated by love and nothing more."

Boston comment on the cables follow:

"We Approve the Pope's Attitude."

Editor of the Pilot, official organ of Catholic Archbishop of Boston.

We thoroughly believe in the attitude of the Pope on this question, and that nature has settled it for once and all. The entrance of women into politics or any act or part by her in political life will lessen the respect shown her. We don't approve of woman suffrage.

"Pope Evidently Not Aware of Woman's Needs."

Miss Susan F. Fitzgerald, Secretary Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association.

The Pope is sequestered behind the walls of the Vatican. Is no part of the

HELD FOR THEFT OF HUNNEWELL PURSE

Pietro Gambro, accused of the larceny of a $400 diamond studded gold purse belonging to Mrs. H. H. Hunnewell of Wellesley, and lost by her in the Boston Theatre, was held in $1,000 for the grand jury to-day in the Municipal Criminal Court. An Italian picked up the purse, the police say, and took it to Gambro in North Square for appraisal. It is claimed that when this man went back he was told Gambro had lost the purse.

HUNTINGDON AVENUE GROUNDS, April 22—Frisky as a bunch of well-fed mules in a rain-storm, the Red Sox players scampered on the field this afternoon and made preparations to kick the Athletics into insensibility again.

"Now, this weather is something like," exclaimed Manager Lake as he came through the runway from the clubhouse. "My boys do not relish the chilly goods, but give us days no colder than this and we will try to show the Boston public some speed. Whining that opening game will give the boys a bit of confidence, especially on the bases. No team in the country can touch us in base running. We can hit the ball, too. As I have said before, it is all up to our pitchers. If they make good we will be right there, fighting all the time."

The grounds were soft from the recent rains, but Jerome Kelly, who looks after the pasture, had things in fine shape for the game, so there was no kick coming from any one.

Connie Mack, the elongated manager of the Athletics, was not a bit discouraged over the showing his team made in the opening game. "I've got a good team, and when we get a going we will be right in the hunt," he said. "I want to compliment Manager Lake on his aggregation, however. He has gathered a very speedy bunch, and I think they will make a fine showing this season."

Harry Hooper, the young Californian, who will alternate with Bullet Jack Thoney in left garden until the Bullet fully recovers his strength, was out for practice and showed the fans some of his speed in going after fly balls. He is a left-handed batter and that is why he did not play yesterday, as he would have had to face Eddie Plank, a left-hander, at the start-off.

2 FAVORITES OF FIREMEN IN TOUR RACE

The fire department entered the rolling contest in connection with the BOSTON AMERICAN'S big Free Vacation Tours Around the World and Tours to Europe. Two candidates have appeared, representing the fire department, assuring a warm contest in the rank and file of the city's fire defenders.

St. Joseph's Parochial School of Roxbury sent in a large number of votes in support of their candidate, and several others, public and private institutions, and organizations in and out of the city, sent heavy contributions of votes and subscriptions to help swell the total of their candidates. The subscription department appreciate that it is necessary to have the subscriptions in the BOSTON AMERICAN office before Thursday night to insure the prompt delivery of the paper on Sunday.

The nominations have not yet closed. The two candidates representing the fire department only qualified yesterday, but to-day they are prominently in the fray in the big contest. Other worthy nominations also are coming in from various parts of the New England States, rivalry being particularly keen between the different cities in the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

ARNOLD AGAIN IN PERIL IN BALLOON

NORTH ADAMS, April 22.—N. H. Arnold had another narrow escape here to-day on his first balloon trip since he was plunged into the North Sea in the international race from Berlin last year. The car of the "North Adams No. 1" caught in a tree, and only lively work prevented a spill. With Arnold were Charles atslick and Dr. H. M. Randall. They are trying to make Boston.

NATIONAL LEAGUE BASEBALL GROUNDS, Philadelphia, April 22.—The season's opening, which was postponed from yesterday, got under way in earnest this afternoon, and the Doves were a star attraction, standing at the head in the league race.

Early to-day the weather conditions promised to be of the Mead kind for the opening and the Quaker fans chirped up courage at the prospect of seeing Billy Murray's Phillies, who have hit some hard luck at the start, get at the high-flying Doves for some runs, which was about due.

The grounds were a bit heavy for the best article of diamond goods, but both managers were determined to start the game unless a deluge came along and flooded the field.

The Doves were especially active, pranced at the head of the big league, and Bowerman was saying all kinds of nice things about his nets.

The day's layoff gave Manager Bowerman a chance to shuffle his pitchers around, but he had his eye on the southpaw, Tuckey, while Murray looked over his string and told Dooin and Covaleski to [illegible] up for the fray.

ENRAGED MONKEY ATTACKS A JUDGE

NEW YORK, April 22.—Consternation was caused in the Harlem Police Court to-day, when an enraged monkey leaped from beneath the cloak of Mrs. Mary O'Gorman, while she was testifying before Magistrate Breen. As she arrived leaped up on the magistrate's desk Court officer Michael Nachbar, who tips the beam at 250 pounds, collapsed with a thud that sounded like the blasting of Niagara Falls. When Nachbar picked his feet he stopped the judicial heights and seized the simian. "Get little Hazel alone," shrieked Mrs. Gorman. "How dare you grab my pet?" Mrs. Jennie Williams, who romped with Mrs. Gorman and her husband, and caused the arrest of the pair, said Mrs. Gorman's saying that a band of blackmailers on a circus manager might kidnap the monkey took it along to jail with her. Magistrate Breen discharged the woman and her beast.

PANIC AS LARGE AUTO BLOWS UP

The loud report of an explosion on Beacon Hill shortly before noon created much excitement in that section and almost created a panic among the tenants of the big Tremont Building.

A crowd collected and windows went up in every direction. It was found that a steam pipe in a large automobile had burst in front of No. 10 Beacon street while a chauffeur was making a demonstration. The machine was damaged to the extent of about $50. The young man who had the car in charge was badly scared apparently, but he was not hurt.

Many sleepers in that section of the city rushed to the street to ascertain what had happened.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS
Up to Midnight, London Time

English Insist on Reform in Persia.

LONDON—Foreign Minister Grey, in the House of Commons, outlined the Far Eastern policy. England and Russia are endeavoring to induce the Shah of Persia to bring about reforms, dismiss incompetent advisers and to convoke the assembly if negotiations during the Tabriz armistice fail. Russia would thus secure an open road for food supply and be enabled to protect foreigners.

The foreign minister denied that Great Britain gave diplomatic support to the Turkish liberals. England refrained from intervention in the internal affairs of Turkey. The only action taken was the sending of British ships to points where danger threatened foreigners.

To-day the British and Russian ministers advised the Persian Shah to restore the Constitution.

ROOSEVELT IS OFF FOR HUNT AFTER LIONS

MOMBASA, British East Africa, April 22—Theodore Roosevelt and his party left here this afternoon on their special train for Kapiti Plains station, from whence they will go in the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease. The party probably will remain at the ranch one week, using it as a base for shooting expeditions, and then move on to Nairobi.

Theodore Roosevelt was one of the early risers at the Government House today and was up and about before the other members of his party. As keenly curious as a boy, he talked with everyone making innumerable questions.

Carriages were provided for the party and they were driven about the city while the chief points of interest were explained. Mr. Roosevelt then made preparations for his departure on the special train early this afternoon for the Pease ranch.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed deep satisfaction at the courtesies extended to the members of his party. The similarity in the ruggedness of the country to that in the Western States seemed to please him mightily.

The good people of Mombasa were elated today over the stay of the famous American and crowds gathered to catch a glimpse of Mr. Roosevelt. When he appeared upon the veranda or in public he waved his hand in greeting and was answered by cheers. Many Americans and English flags were displayed intermixed to show the fraternal feelings of the British. All of the members of the party are enjoying the best of health, and all are in fine spirits, anxious to reach the hunting grounds as soon as possible.

Mr. Roosevelt, his son Kermit, Edmund Heller, E. C. Selous, the English author and hunter, who has joined the party and R. J. Cunninghame, the general manager of the expedition, were entertained at dinner last night by the members of the Mombasa Club. In his speech Mr. Selous expressed the hope that Mr. Roosevelt would in the future use the power of his position to bring about an entente between Great Britain and Germany.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his speech, paid high tribute to the British people, praising their tenacity and genius in developing the wonderful places of the earth. He said he was astonished at what he had heard of the progress of British East Africa, but he warned his hearers that they could not expect to achieve in a short time what it had taken America many generations to accomplish.

He then emphasized the necessity of leaving local questions to be solved by the authorities on the spot, and commented upon the fact that the people at home were little of affairs abroad. In this connection he lectured the United States and the Philippine Islands.

He said he believed in peace, but considered that strength meant peace, and he hoped that all the nations would provide themselves with this means to the end.

CAMBRIDGE SEALER WON'T LEAVE OFFICE

Appointed as sealer of weights and measures of Cambridge, his commission coming direct from the newly-elected Democratic Mayor, William P. Brooks, and being confirmed by the Cambridge Board of Aldermen, Representative Manuel Andrews of East Cambridge to-day failed to qualify when he attempted to take the oath of office. The office now is being passed upon by City Solicitor G. A. A. Percy Lewis. C. McBride, the old-time non-partisan sealer of weights and measures, absolutely refuses to give up the office. There is no personal quarrel between Andrews and McBride. The latter simply says he will not give up the position. He intends that he holds over by reason of a civil service examination taken since he was appointed two years ago, and doesn't purpose to give up a $2,000 position without a fight.

CLOTHESLINES KILL 2 GOTHAM WOMEN

NEW YORK, April 22.—A clothesline brought death to Mrs. Louis Elper of No. 123 Washington street when she fell from the third story of her home while trying to hang in the line. Almost simultaneously Mrs. Minnie Turner, a bride of two months was fatally hurt in a similar accident at her home, No. 67 Lindow street.

$20,000,000 NEW MILLS

An aggregate of $20,000,000 worth of new construction has already been undertaken by thirty-seven different mill corporations in New England, and a record year in this line is assured. The various undertakings are spending from $200,000 to $3,000,000 each. Eighty per cent of the total expenditure is in Massachusetts.

Four large new plants, practically in themselves more than $7,000,000, are under way. The largest of these is the Ayer mill of the American Woolen Company. The new Arlington mill will cost about $2,000,000; the New Bedford Mill Company, incorporated a fortnight ago, will build an eleven-gingham plant that will cost about $1,000,000, while the Reedpercity mills, planned by E. N. Foss of East Boston, now practically financed, will call for an initial expenditure of $1,000,000.

In Fall River alone seven mills are making extensions to their plants.

In New Bedford, the Dartmouth Manufacturing Company and the Pierce Manufacturing Company will each add about 50,000 spindles this year. The Kilburn mill is also making extensions.

The Nutmekeg steam cotton mills in Salem will put up a large new weave shed. The Everett mills and the Wood worsted mills of Lawrence are making important extensions. The Pacific mills are making considerable additions to their properties and are also improving the Cochesett plant recently purchased.

In New Hampshire the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company is making an extension which will mean the employment of an additional 3,500 hands.

ENNIS & STOPPANI SUED FOR STOCK

Alleging that he had purchased, but never received, a certificate for 200 shares of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad stock, Frederick A. Hammond, through Attorney John B. Quinn, obtained a temporary injunction by order of Judge Wood restraining Thomas Ennis and Charles Stoppani, bankers, of New York, and D. H. Curtiss, enabling the transferring or disposing of the certificate.

Hammond says he purchased the certificate from Ennis & Stoppani, who represent themselves to be left this State before he received the certificate, and has been unable to obtain it or the money.

The case will come up before the Supreme Court on April 28.

NO QUORUM BARS CENSUS BILL TALK

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Representative Crumpacker called up the conference report on the census bill in the House to-day and moved that the House further insist on the disagreement. He asked for a further conference. The House seemed inclined to accept the Senate amendment requiring applicants to reside in the State or Territory from which they make application one year before being eligible for examination. The debate was cut short by the point of no quorum.

PLAN BIG WELCOME TO ARCHBISHOP

When Archbishop William H. O'Connell returns to this city from his present visit to Rome he will be given a welcome such as no Catholic prelate has ever received in New England.

The proposed reception will serve as a welcome home and as a celebration of the silver jubilee of the archbishop's ordination to the priesthood.

The exercises will consist of an elaborate religious celebration in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross on the morning of the day chosen, and on the same evening, in one of the largest halls obtainable, a general gathering will be held.

FIVE DELIGHTFUL SPRING ROMANCES—They are detailed in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

Gin for the Kidneys

Gin is one of the oldest known remedies for kidney and bladder troubles, especially when used in the following formula. Six ounces good pure gin, one-half ounce Murax compound, one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu. Murax compound is a product of the Standard Chemical Co. Laboratories in Chicago, but like the other ingredients of this prescription, it can be had of any good druggist. Those troubled with backache, rheumatic pains in the joints and muscles, frequent and scanty urination, dizziness and other well known symptoms, should take the above prescription in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and continue for several days after all symptoms disappear. Prompt use of this treatment is necessary for best results as neglect is apt to bring on the serious forms of kidney trouble. Bright's disease or diabetes.

POPE'S VIEW ON SUFFRAGE CRITICIZED

political life, and evidently is not aware to the needs of woman. In this country, especially, where the women remember the sex greatly, it is only just that woman should be allowed to enter the public forum and have her say in the questions that affect the life. Why, if each woman had to wait for some man to express her opinion, what would the thousands who never marry do? They are entitled to enter the industrial life, and live under the laws affecting that condition. There, they should be allowed a hand in the making of the laws. The whole discussion boils down to truer democracy and truer

"Pope Doubtless Has Old-Fashioned Ideas."

MRS. J. H. PAGE, Chairman Committee on Economic Conditions of Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association.

The Pope no doubt is very old-fashioned and undoubtedly has many old-fashioned ideas regarding social conditions. We are not seeking to make women the equal of men in the liberal sense of the term. That point we do not consider. Nature will take care of that. What we are after is to make the position of the ordinary lass which now prevents women from development. Under suffrage woman would still love her husband, and the home would still be preserved. The true happiness of married life is founded on a series of compromises, born of a desire for the welfare of the people it by affection. What suffrage teaches is that the wife shall have her opinions and the husband his.

"I Do Not Believe In Women Suffrage."

Miss Katherine E. Conway of the Republic.

It would be as sensible for me to discuss the Pope's opinion as for a small civil service employe to attempt to refute the opinions of the President.

Personally I don't believe in woman suffrage, nor do I want it. I don't think that the women of this country want the ballot, but if they do the men will be glad to give it to them on a silver

"I Do Not Agree with Views on Authority."

MISS E. C. MACOMBER, secretary of the College Equal Suffrage League and a graduate of Vassar.

I do not agree with the Pope's statement that the husband's authority should be mitigated only by love. The lack of reason for submission so often disguised under the name of love, so if accepted authority on the part of the husband is mitigated by love, then she would have no tangible defense for her position. Woman suffrage teaches the respect of each other's rights. If the wife believes in prohibition then she should express herself through the ballot. Similarly, if the husband has contrary opinions then he would heed to them. We never find much should have an influence, and that influence is supposed to be according to consider and respect that opinion.

YOUNG TURKS' ARMY ENTERS CITY TO-DAY

SEA OF MARMORA CROSSED BY ARMY OF YOUNG TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—Negotiations are continuing between Nazim Pasha and the Young Turk army. They are considering the disbandment of the 5,000 time-expired men of the Constantinople garrison and the replacement of the rest by Young Turk troops from Salonica; punishment of soldiers who participated in recent events and the transfer of the policing of the city from the present authorities to reformed Macedonian gendarmerie. All these conditions are to be executed without bloodshed.

The investment of the city is practically complete. It is reported that a detachment of Third Army Corps has crossed the sea of Marmora and occupied Rodosto, a station on the Anatolian Railroad. The object of this movement is supposed to be the interception of fugitives on their way from Constantinople and cutting off communication between Asia Minor and the city.

The council of ministers has issued a declaration assuring the citizens that all rumors of the Sultan's abdication and other alarming reports are false.

The Sultan is declared today to be on the verge of a physical collapse from fret and heartache. Only a few persons have been permitted an audience with him to date, one of the committee on Fisheries and Game becomes a law. The new bill makes the open season for killing deer before December 1, 1910. However, the farmer may kill deer on his farm, or any one whom he authorizes may shoot and kill deer damaging his crops except that. CAPT. HAINS IS DYING FOR LOVE OF WIFE

By DOROTHY DIX

NEW YORK, April 22.—Many women have died of broken hearts because their husbands have been untrue to them. Few men have ever died of broken hearts because of faithless wives. Perhaps no man save one who has a large element of femininity in his nature has ever died of pining away and dying under the blight of an unfortunate and unhappy love.

This, however, is the case with Peter Hains, who is as much a victim of the "Grande Passion" as was ever the hero of any romantic story in fiction. In these days of easy and frequent divorce of husbands and wives that rite of each other before the magistrates in the court room, when it is fashionable to be "broad" and emancipated and free, we forget that there are still left in the world here and there men who can love as Petrarch loved Laura, as Leander loved Hero, as Romeo loved Juliet, whose hearts claim one and only woman in the world for love until death, and to whom it is divine. Peter Hains had woman innocently and faithless.

Such a man was Peter Hains, and as his wife, was and white and weak and proud and erring, he unswerving love was after before him in the court room, waiting for the verdict that was to set him free, and killing the man who broke up his home, you know that no matter what she had done for him that he has gotten his death wound forever.

It was given to him to see the woman he worshipped, his wife he trusted, throw she stabbed him to the heart with her confession of sin, and to hear her declare that she had never loved him, and that all her love was given to another man.

In that moment of life ended for him, like the poor dupe of the "Fool's Paradise" he had been, but most of life died.

Yet up to that time Peter Hains had been a man first and more than held his own among men. He had made the height of character in overcoming physical disabilities, for in spite of bad eyes, he had graduated with distinction in the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and then had taken up a post-graduate course in the Johns Hopkins University, and graduated as an electrical engineer.

Won High Praise in Army.

He had followed his profession with success, and had been employed on some of the big engineering and construction works of the government. He had made several invasions of merit, and was popular with everywhere in the service as being one of the most capable and scholarly young officers in the army, and was looked upon as a "coming man."

And he was brave. This man whom a woman has broken did not know what fear meant. At the battle of Las Palmas, during the Spanish War, he was recommended and remarked that Lieutenant Hains paved himself in front of his men for relief and were in action and under fire to protect his father from Spanish punishment of soldiers who participated in recent events and the transfer of the policing of the city from the present authorities to reformed Macedonian gendarmerie. All these conditions are to be executed without bloodshed.

CAPT. HAINS SANE, NOW IS DEFENCE'S AMAZING THEORY

NEW YORK, April 22.—The theory of the defence in the trial of Captain Peter C. Hains for the murder of William F. Annis was made known today by Dr. Louis Samuel Munson, chief alienist for the prisoner.

According to this theory Captain Hains is now sane, but he was suffering from impulsive insanity at the time he shot Annis and was not sensible of his acts up to November 4 last.

Up to this morning 157 talesmen had been examined. Ex-Engineer N. L. Young, former district attorney of Queens, and chief assistant to John F. McIntyre for the defense, participated in the examination in case that two weeks might be consumed in securing a jury.

Immediately following the calling of the roll of the new panel of talesmen, Deputy Garrison formally excused Messrs. Jardine and Roberts, former jurors serving in the court, along with two others who were allowing to go for reasons which were regarded as satisfactory. This reduced the number of talesmen available to 153.

Shortly afterward the sixth juror was chosen. He is Wilbur W. Crafts, a contractor from Jamaica. He is married and has two children.

HAVE YOU ENTERED THE GREAT WORLD RACE?---DO IT NOW

Stage Comes Forward with Candidate, While Firemen Have Two Favorites in Race.

AKE a peep any time you happen in the vicinity at the scenes of activity at the Around-the-World Department of the BOSTON AMERICAN, and you will be quickly and easily satisfied of the tremendous interest that is taken on all sides in the great Race. Tours to Europe and the American Sight Seeing Trips, which are offered free to the school boys and school girls of New England.

Two of the latest entrants in the Race Around the World are rival representatives of the fire department.

Lou Hughes, No. 777 Columbia road, Dorchester, attending the Boston College High School, fifteen years old, son of James J. Hughes, stakes his support of a vast majority of the firemen in the city owing to his father's thirty years' connection with the department.

His future, who is laughingly known as "Jimmie" Hughes to his friends, was for two years with engine company No. 25 of Fort Hill, fifteen years in the chemical service and two years with engine No. 3.

Honor for Roxbury Girl.

Hughes's rival is Joan E. Himes, No. 97 Horace street, East Boston. Himes is the son of the captain of Engine 8, on Saratoga street, and declares that with the support to be gained from his father's connections and also from the East Boston High School, which he attends, he will make Hughes "step some" to be crowned the most popular boy among the younger generation in the families of the fire fighters.

Miss White, fifteen years old, of No. 9 Vine street, Roxbury, who has the distinction of being the first girl entered for the Tours to Europe, and who has been working quietly, unostentatiously and efficiently in the work of gathering subscriptions and votes, has secured the formal indorsement of the children of St. Joseph's Parochial School in Roxbury, which she attends.

She is the only representative of this school in the contest, and if confidence on her part or that of her schoolmates and teachers count for anything she will be among the leaders at the finish.

Life Savers Have Candidate.

The City Point Division of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps, located at South Boston, is actively interested in Miss Margaret McDonough of No. 564 East Third street, South Boston. Miss McDonough is a sister of Miss Mary McDonough, the champion girl swimmer of New England. The McDonough girls are popular in the Dunnemair District.

The Life Saving Corps, Manuel De Freitas commanding, will hold a meeting next Sunday to take formal action on devising ways and means to help their candidate.

Irene M. Cameron, attending the Grant School of Watertown, has the support of Camp George J. Whitten, Spanish War Veterans. This little miss is fifteen years old and is making a good showing, devoting a good deal of attention to the gathering of subscriptions.

Walter Schrumpf, fourteen years old, No. 18 Central place, Cliftondale, who is in the graduating class of the Fenton School, is the candidate of the United Eleven Baseball Club.

William Schrumpf, father of the boy, is a traveling salesman and is helping his son's candidacy by rolling up a large number of subscriptions in the outside territory.

Miss Marion Coogan, No. 108 Myrtle street, Boston, daughter of John J. Coogan, is a theatrical candidate in the race, and has a good chance at landing one of the prizes.

The theatrical colony in the West End is taking an active interest in her contest and inviting vaudeville performers and others to extend the campaign to other cities. John J. Coogan, father of the candidate, was formerly a vaudeville performer of high standing.

Albert Harvey, No. 50 Chatham road, Everett, is the second candidate to enter the field as a representative of the Grace Episcopal Church of Everett. Albert Stillson, also a member of the choir, is the other candidate, and the closing between these two boys is of an entirely friendly and exciting character.

The Around the World Editor is in receipt of a letter endorsing William S. Nickerson, No. 443 Main street, Wakefield, as the candidate of the employees of the Boston & Maine Railroad Company.

Other from the several of the scholars of the Morton school, at Roxbury, endorsing William Keay, No. 111 Mount Pleasant street, Roxbury, as the candidate for first place in the Around the World Race.

Tips to Vote-Getters.

This latest letter winds up in this fashion: "Kent has something up his sleeve, and on June 22nd, '09, we guarantee his name on top."

Now remember, boys and girls, the best way to secure high standing in this race is by means of paid-in-advance subscriptions. Others are easy to get if you will devote yourself to this task. Those who so make look over land before school ahead of us in any community with such a mag nificent prize.

These tours are of tremendous educational value, and the fortunate winners will have cause to long remember the BOSTON AMERICAN. They will pay all the expenses, not alone of the winners, but of the escort the winners will be permitted to select.

This is a wonderful opportunity, not alone for school children, but for parents, relatives, friends and teachers, any of whom may be selected by the boys and girls.

Nominations remain open. The contest is really just starting. Anyone entering now has just as good a chance of winning as those who have entered long before. So, if you are not already a qualified nominee, get in the race today and start gathering votes and subscriptions.

On Page 2 of this and every edition of the AMERICAN appear two voting coupons, one for boys and one for girls.

A DOZEN BRIGHT TOUR SEEKERS

Key to Group: (1) Helen Mc-Carthy, No. 336 Cambridge street, Boston; (2) Lillian E. Guthlin, No. 557 Summer street, East Boston; (3) Dwight Beale, No. 7 Holden street, Dorchester; (4) Alice Ashmore, No. 78 South street, Jamaica Plain; (5) Lillian Green, No. 20 Chambers street, South Boston; (6) Helen Townsend, No. 35 Marion street, Somerville; (7) Ethel Rounsdell, No. 17 Moore street, West Somerville; (8) Ida M. Russell, No. 75 Orchard street, Malden; (9) Ernest Forsila, No. 129 Orleans street, East Boston; (10) Lillian R. Great, No. 30 Hudson street, Roxbury; (11) Frank N. Millvard, Jr., No. 27 Havre street, East Boston; (12) Raymond A. Wilkins, No. 18 Water street, Arlington.

ONE QUESTION FOR CONTESTANTS TO STUDY

Boys, in travelling around the world you will pass through many climes. Within thirty-six hours you may pass from a zone of midsummer heat into an area of extreme cold. Would you be able to read the temperature records of any other register than the Fahrenheit standard?

How many systems for recording temperature are in use throughout the world? How would you transform any of the others to the Fahrenheit system?

Prepare yourself now, so that when the race around the earth begins you will know. Write to the Around-the-World Editor about the idea.

Those coupons have a time limit of five days, and will positively not be counted if received after the time limit expires.

Which tells! Have your friends watch the time limit on the coupons. Don't fail to fill in all the spaces provided for the different information. Don't forget that the paid-in-advance subscription must be polled at any time.

Don't forget that these subscriptions are for the SUNDAY AMERICAN only. And don't hold them up unnecessarily, so that your friends and supporters will be assured of prompt delivery.

HOW WE CAME TO HAVE EYES AND EARS—Scientific explanation of these organs is given in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

BASKERVILLE DEFIED DEATH

LONDON, April 22.—A Tahiti dispatch describes the awful death of H. C. Baskerville, the young American teacher who sacrificed his position as master of the mission school to help in the defiance of the starving town.

Baskerville arranged five times to attack the besiegers with a prospect of success, but each time the courage of the ultimate authorities failed and the organization broke down. Then, when the chances of success were gone, the authorities, in desperate appealed to Baskerville to lead the attack of which they had previously disapproved.

Baskerville pointed out the hopelessness of the effort, as the demoralization of the citizen troops was complete. Finally, however, he consented, though he knew he would lead a forlorn hope.

Baskerville led 150 to the onset, but by the time they got within range of the besiegers' rifles their numbers had dwindled to nine. Nevertheless Baskerville gallantly began an attack with his remaining nine when through the heart at the head of his followers, dying almost immediately.

MOTHER, SON, DIE IN FIRE

RUTLAND, Vt., April 22.—Mrs. Arthur W. Hawley, twenty-one years of age, and her baby boy, Roy, were to-day found burned to death in their home on a farm two miles north of this city. Mr. Hawley's aide in the kitchen by the stove of a pan which had been full of burning. Charred embers of the fire in the cook stove fully tell the story of her tragedy.

A neighbor, G. A. Davis, saw smoke pouring from the windows of the Hawley home. Arthur Hawley was delivering milk in Rutland at the time. Davis rushed into the burning house, he found the curtains and some of the woodwork in the kitchen ablaze.

On the floor lay Mrs. Hawley, the clothing burned from her body. In the bedroom lay the dead body of the baby boy. The woman had evidently rushed from the kitchen with her child to save him and then took to the floor to extinguish the fire, when she fell dead.

GOVERNOR LILLEY DEAD.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 22.—Governor George Leavens Lilley is dead, after battling with disease for four weeks. The end came peacefully, as the patient did not regain consciousness from the stupor in which he had lain for many hours, and which was the result of acute nephritis and its attendant complications.

TORNADO LOSS IS $5,000,000

CLEVELAND, April 22.—Probably ten thousand men are out of work to-day as one of the results of the threatening hurricane that swept Cleveland and Northern Ohio. The loss in Cleveland and vicinity to-day is estimated at $5,000,000.

Eight lives are known to be lost. Twenty-five people were seriously injured and one hundred slightly hurt.

Probably not one of the sufferers in the storm carried insurance against this sort of disaster. The wrecking of manufacturing plants will result in heavy loss to workingmen.

Among the dead are: Miss Olive Phelan, nurse at the State Hospital for the Insane, struck by a timber blown from a roof; Joseph Connell, blown from high trestle at Cleveland entrance and hit by falling timber; Clarence Trautman, blown from bed car in Baltimore & Ohio yards and run over by switch engine; Louis Petron, a caddy at the Euclid club, crushed in wreck of automobile shed.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S GUIDES—Read all about them in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN. First photographs of them.

MOTHER ROSE, HEROINE, DEAD

BALTIMORE, April 22.—Driven out of France with her band of more than twenty nuns, and after a hard fight with illness, fire and poverty, Mother Rose, of Mary, superioress of the Dominican order at the convent of the Perpetual Rosary, at Irvington, is dead.

During the trials to which they were subjected during the terrible times of the expulsion movement in France, Mother Rose was the guiding hand of the little band of exiles. Seeing the darkening storm, she gathered sufficient money to bring her band to the new world, and although mobs had begun to collect she kept up the courage of the women and made her way to the country of religious freedom.

Mother Rose's death is said to be due to exposure, but the climate was the cause of complications. When the French sisters return again to the old world they will bear the body back to France.

JAPS' ENVOY CAN'T ATTEND

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Baron Takahira, Japanese Ambassador, will be unable to attend the peace congress at Chicago, May 2 to 5. The Japanese Council at Chicago has represent him.

NOBILITY IN WILL CONTEST

NEW YORK, April 22.—Names of high title and great wealth are involved in a suit in the United States Supreme Court to have set aside the will of the late Antonio Yznaga del Valle, who died in Philadelphia in 1892.

The complainants are the testator's three daughters, Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester; Lady Natica Lister-Kaye and Emily Yznaga.

The defendants in the suit are Frederick L. Eldridge and Harry B. Hollins, as executors; Harry B. Hollins and William K. Vanderbilt, as executors of the will of Fernando Antonio Yznaga, the brother of the complainants; Edward C. Rhodes as executor of the will of Elton Yznaga, widow of Del Valle; William Angier, Duke of Manchester; Alexander George, Francis Drego, Viscount Mandeville; Mary Alice Montagu and Helen Mildred Montagu. The three last are grandchildren of the Dowager Duchess of Manchester.

Del Valle left his estate in charge of his son, Antonio, who was to pay the mother $6,000 a year annuity and divide the rest of the income among his three sisters until their mother's death. The plaintiffs contend that the estate, instead of the mere income, should be divided among them now.

JORDAN'S LOVE FOR WOMAN OF MYSTERY LED TO KILLING?

Dead Wife's Tongue Will Be Introduced as Evidence to Show Manner of Death.

the case with tense interest. There were many women in the court room who were startled at some features of the testimony. Only one went out.

An immense crowd gathered about the jail today to get a glimpse of Jordan as he was being taken to the courthouse. Soon after he entered the trunk that had contained sections of his wife's body, part of her clothing and other articles was carried into the room and placed within the railing.

Probably never before in a capital case was such an apparently improbable and remarkable thing done as the amazing exhibit of the woman's tongue. Assistant District Attorney Wier told the jury that the State would show that Jordan hit his wife with a flatiron and then strangled her to death.

"The teeth were imbedded in the tongue," he said, "and we will have that tongue as witness how this woman died."

WOMAN OF MYSTERY HINTED AS MOTIVE FOR KILLING WIFE

Sergeant Michael E. Crowley of Station 5, who testified yesterday afternoon about Jordan's alleged confession and the finding of the body of Mrs. Jordan in the trunk in Jordan's room, was recalled to the stand to-day as the first witness.

General Bartlett of the defense said that he did not care to further question the sergeant. Assistant District Attorney Wier then took the witness for redirect examination, as follows:

Q.—Did you tell Jordan in the Hancock street room that you were a police officer? A.—I did, and showed him my star.

Q.—Did you apprise him of the rights he had? A.—I did, and he said that he would be glad to tell his story; that he might just as well.

Mysterious Woman in Case.

Q.—When next did you talk to Jordan? A.—At the captain's desk in the Joy street station.

Q.—Had he been formally placed under arrest at that time? A.—He was charged with murder.

Q.—What did you say to him then? A.—I asked him if he would give me the name of the New Haven woman whom he told me over in the Hancock street room that he was "stuck on," and was going to New York to meet. A.—He asked me if he would be compelled to tell the name of the woman. I answered that he would not.

Here the assistant prosecutor rested on his redirect examination. General Bartlett, addressing the court, said:

"Your honor, I object to the introduction of such evidence given by this witness regarding an alleged mysterious woman in New Haven. That evidence has nothing whatever to do with this case, and I move you that all such evidence be stricken out."

District Attorney Higgins, taking part in the prosecution for the State, then said:

"Your honor, the government considers this very important evidence and competent evidence. We offer it as tending to show a motive for this murder."

Judge Stevens overruled the motion of General Bartlett, and the motion presently took exception.

Sergeant Crowley was then dismissed.

JORDAN VERY COOL, SHOWED NO REMORSE, SAYS CAPT. DUGAN

Captain Joseph Dugan, head of the bureau of Criminal Investigation of Boston, followed Sergeant Crowley on the witness stand. Judge Stevens announced that he wanted all witnesses excluded from the courtroom during the entire trial, because some of them may be called in rebuttal.

Dugan was accompanied by Officer Elwyn Hauser," he testified. "There were present during my talk with Jordan Inspector Dumsey of the Somerville police, Sergeant Crowley of the Joy street station, Captain Peabody and Officer Grey of the same station and Medical Examiner Magrath of Boston and his assistant, Dr. Learoyd came in.

"Jealousy the Cause."

Q.—What did you ask him about first? A.—I asked him first with reference to his wife. He told me her name and I then asked him if it was on the body that was the body of his wife. He said it was. I asked him what led up to the killing. He said that a quarrel arose and that jealousy was the cause. Jordan said that his wife had been untrue to him, addressing him that he replied in kind, that she never uttered the same sort of language and that she was standing at the head of the rear stairs in the hallway at the time. He said that she had been drinking beer with her supper and supper and that she had a carving knife in her hand. He said he struck her with his fist and she fell down stairs.

Q.—He described to you at the time his wife made the last remark that she came at him with the knife? A.—I recall that Jordan said, "She came at me with the knife."

Q.—What did Jordan say he did after striking his wife? A.—He said, I started down in my old key, and after that my mind was all black until the next morning.

Q.—Did he say how he felt when he started down to aid her? A.—No.

Q.—Was Jordan perfectly calm when he was reciting this story to you? A.—I should call it more than calm—his recital was cold.

Q.—There was no nervousness or tremor of the voice or hand when he recited this story to you that you saw? A.—I saw nothing of the kind.

Q.—What further did Jordan say to you? A.—He further said that he woke up the next morning finding himself in bed. It was 7:30 o'clock when he awoke; that he went into the kitchen and saw his wife's mutilated body on the floor.

Q.—Did he say anything descriptive of his awakening? A.—Jordan said, "It took me four or five minutes to come to myself. Then I rushed out into the kitchen and saw what I had done."

While Captain Dugan was repeating the story that Jordan had told to him, Jordan leaned back in his chair, folded his hands in front of him and closed his eyes. He seemed to be lost in thought. Jordan's father sat near by, closely following the testimony.

Clothes Under Her Head.

Q.—Did Jordan tell you just how the body was lying in the kitchen? A.—Yes, he said that it was lying partly in the kitchen and partly in the pantry. The head was over the sill of the pantry door.

Q.—What did he tell you about the clothes? A.—He said that there were found the body first there were some of her clothes under the head, and other clothes were on a nearby chair. He said he took some of the clothes and put them in the set tubs with the body, some of the clothes he left down cellar.

Q.—Did he say what kind of a dress Mrs. Jordan wore that day? A.—Yes, he said she wore a blue spotted dress.

Q.—Now, again, was all this conversation that you had with Jordan taken down by your stenographer? A.—Yes, it was.

Q.—Now just what did he say to you about dismembering the body? A.—He said that he was horrified to find it lying on the kitchen floor with the throat cut from ear to ear. He drew his hand across his own throat to show the extent of the cut. He said that he made up his mind right away to get rid of the body.

Q.—What did he say that he did the first thing? A.—He said he took a butcher knife and a razor, cut through the flesh of both arms at the shoulder, twisted the arms out of their sockets, cut the tendons with the razor and severed the arms to the set tubs in the kitchen. He said he did the same things with the legs, cutting through with the butcher knife at the knee, twisting the legs out of the sockets, cutting the tendons with the razor and then placing the two legs with the two arms in one of the set tubs. He lifted the trunk from the floor and placed it in the second of the set tubs. Then he turned on the water, packed some of the clothing about the body in the tub and covered the whole with oil cloth and then over all placed the regular set tub covers.

Q.—Did he ever say how the clothing was removed from the woman's body? A.—He said that I recall.

Q.—Now, Captain, what was his demeanor during all this time that he was telling you this story? A.—He was very cool and collected. He told his story easily and carefully, apparently.

Q.—And what would you say about Jordan's demeanor as he told you this story, as compared with the demeanor of other men under suspicion of having committed or being charged with a similar crime? A.—Jordan's case was certainly a rare one.

Q.—What did Jordan say to you after he had put the body in the set tubs? A.—He said he washed the butcher knife and razor and washed the floor.

Q.—Where did Jordan say he went that morning? A.—He said he went to Boston and transacted some business.

Q.—Did he tell you that he had anything to drink that morning? A.—Yes, he said that he took a cafe with a friend and that he had a raspberry whiskey punch.

Q.—Did you endeavor to find whether or not Jordan was a drinking man? A.—I did.

Q.—What did you find? A.—I found that he was a very moderate drinker. He said that he drank very little.

Q.—Now what time did Jordan come back to his house? A.—He told me that he came back at quarter of six.

Q.—And what did he say happened then? A.—Well, he said he decided to cut the body into smaller pieces. He said he bought a meat saw in Boston, a pair of scissors and another knife.

He lifted the body from the set tubs and put it up in the sink. Then he said he felt hungry. He went to the ice chest, sliced up some bacon, went to the pantry and got some bread, eggs and tea and prepared his supper. He went outside and got a bottle of milk that had been left there from the morning, cooked his own supper and ate it.

Q.—Well, then, Captain, what did he say he did? A.—He said he went to the sink and began to further dismember the body using the back saw, the knife and the scissors.

Q.—Did Jordan say that he had any difficulty in dismembering the body? A.—He said that he had no difficulty, only that it was very easy to accomplish.

Q.—Did he say anything about removing the head from the arm? A.—Yes, he said that his wife had a tattoo mark on her arm, containing the word McKinley. He said it did not refer to the President, but that it did refer to the boat owned by a fellow on which she was born at sea. He said it was the name of the boat.

Q.—Did he say what he did with the skin containing the tattoo mark which he took off? A.—He said he destroyed it.

Q.—Did he say what he did after this? A.—He said he then smoked a cigarette and undressed and went to bed about 10:30.

Q.—During all this recital did you see any blood on his person or how he was dressed? A.—No.

Q.—Did he express any remorse during this recital for what he had done? A.—No.

INSPECTOR DAMERY IDENTIFIES TORN CLOTHES OF VICTIM

Inspector Thomas Damery of the Somerville police held up the dead woman's clothes and told of Jordan's incarceration.

Q.—Did you take Jordan to the Somerville lockup? A.—I did, at 11:15 o'clock that night.

Q.—How did you make the trip? A.—We went over in a hack.

Q.—Now, on the way over will you tell us what Jordan said, if anything, in addition to what he told Captain Dugan.

A.—Jordan said that he hoped the news would be kept from his mother, that her health was poor, and that the shock might prove injurious. He further said that he intended to go rambling the next day with Jesse Livermore. He said he was to meet him at noon, but that it didn't look as though he could go then.

Jordan Closes Eyes.

At this point the hack saw, a butcher knife, a bottle of Brilliantine, Mrs. Jordan's wedding ring, two stickpins, a watch chain and charm, business cards and $112.14 in money were offered as exhibits. They were placed in evidence.

Inspector Damery testified that with the exception of the butchey knife all the exhibits were found in Jordan's possession on the night of his arrest. He received them from Sergeant Crowley and has kept them since. The butcher knife with which it is claimed the body was cut up was found by Inspector Damery in the pantry of Jordan's house.

As the different exhibits were brought in and placed in evidence, Jordan partially closed his eyes and sat once during the procedure did he raise them to look at the group of objects as they were placed before the witness.

Q.—Did you take anything else from the house at that time? A.—I did, this razor and strop and white handled razor. It was in this case.

Q.—Did you find anything else in the house at that time? A.—Yes, these shears and witness held up a pair of very heavy shears about fourteen inches long, I took these shears from the lower shelf of the pantry.

Q.—Did you take anything else at last time? A.—Yes, a quantity of clothing I found in the clothes basket. The clothes were wet at the time.

Clothing Is Slashed.

The assistant District Attorney then placed a large bundle of clothing upon the witness stand and asked:

Q.—Are these the clothes you found? The witness undid the bundle and took out a pair of corsets. They were blood stained and the lacing had been slashed. Holding it up for the jurer's inspection, he answered:

A.—This pair of corsets were taken out of the coal hod by Sergeant Ray in my presence.

Q.—What does the clothing which you have before you consist of? A.—A white dress, with red dots in two pieces, this is the waist clothing up a torn waist for flannel, a white flannel underskirt having been torn or cut. This is the skirt clothing up a black petticoat.

Q.—What else was in the bundle? A.—Here is a pair of black stocking clothing with up, and here is a corset cover (also clothing that was).

Q.—Was the corset cover cut? A.Yes, but I can't tell whether it was cut in the back or the front.

A pair of shoes with the cuffs stained, was exhibited to the jury.

FRIEND OF FAMILY TELLS OF PROPOSED VISIT TO ENGLAND

Miss Bessie F. Luffey, of No. 118 Bertlott street, Somerville, who knew the Jordans well, testified that she was living alive on the Monday previous to the murder, when the couple called at her house, and that she spoke of going to England.

Q.—What conversation did you have with them that night? A.—It was all about Mrs. Jordan's trip. She was going to England to see her folks. Mr. Jordan said that she was going away. I asked how long she would be gone. She said probably a month. Mr. Jordan said that he thought a good she would stay three or four months. Mrs. Jordan said that she would get somebody to do the work while she was away. Mr. Jordan said that he would have a maid. Mrs. Jordan said she was going.

Q.—Did either of them say anything about money for the trip? A.—No.

Miss Luffey was not cross-examined.

BIG DYNAMITE BLAST BREAKS NIAGARA ICE

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 22.—Hundreds of pounds of dynamite were exploded between Youngstown and Niagara Falls to-day in a final effort to break the terrific ice jam in the Niagara river which is imperilling thousands of lives and threatens to destroy property valued at millions of dollars.

Assistant Superintendent Henry A. Rinne and Foreman Charles H. Tuttle of the State department of public works, had charge of the work of exploding the dynamite.

The first charge was set off at the mouth of the Niagara, near Youngstown. A gang of men, led by Mr. Rinne and Mr. Tuttle, made their way out on the ice by means of planks and selected a spot in the middle of the river for making the initial test. Five hundred pounds of dynamite were carried out to the place. The explosive was deposited in a huge crevasse in the ice. Then Mr. Rinne rigged up the fulminating device, after which everyone returned to shore.

Explosion Heard in Buffalo.

The pressing of a button set off the dynamite, and the exploded was heard in Buffalo. Tons of ice were sent high into the air, and showers of it fell in Youngstown and Niagara on the Lake, on the Canada side. After the first explosion Mr. Kunze arranged to set off a second charge, consisting of 1,000 pounds of dynamite. He also ordered that charges be set off at Lewistown and Niagara Falls.

"The effect of these explosions, if there is any, will not be apparent until early evening or to-morrow," said Mr. Kunze. "The ice is soft and mushy, and the explosions will not have the same effect as if the ice were solid. We hope, however, to clear the blockade of ice at the mouth of the river."

Appealed to Governor Hughes.

The citizens of Youngstown and Lewiston have appealed to Governor Hughes for aid. Since the river is an international waterway, it was necessary for him to report to the War Department. He cut red tape, got the secretary of war hearing rinse is found to follow and the order permission to order whatever might be necessary.

The dynamite relief will cost about $2,000, which will be refunded to the state.

The dynamite workers took their lives in their hands. Should a powerful charge loosen the "Key Rocks" of the jam a terrific rush is found to follow and the dynamiters may not be able to escape.

FOUND DEAD IN LODGINGS.

Vincenzo Piccopio, twenty-one years old and single, was found lead in his lodgings at No. 12 Battery street, North end, early today by Angelo Crescenzo, another lodger. Death was said to be due to natural causes, but Medical Examiner Magrath was not satisfied.

BOYS! WANT TO TALK TO JACK BINNS?

Boys!

Can you work a wireless telegraph?

Yes? Well then, would you like to see "Via Wireless?" Would you like to meet Jack Binns, the hero of the Republic disaster, after the play and have a chat with him?

Of course you would. And it's just like this, boys.

You know "Via Wireless" is being played at the Boston Theatre. As its name implies, there's a lully wreck scene in it with a rescue by wireless telegraph. Jack Binns is "in back" of the scenes in charge of the wireless outfit. After that scene he comes out front and talks to the audience about wireless and its wonders.

The BOSTON AMERICAN has arranged to send to the Boston Theatre next Tuesday night any boys of Greater Boston who have a wireless outfit and can work it or are learning to work it in a practical manner.

But there's more than that to it. You will have a chance to meet Jack Binns, not across the footlights the way the regular audience does, but at a private and personal reception.

After the entire show is over that evening Binns will talk wireless to you at close range and SHOW HOW HIS APPARATUS WORKS.

Binns wishes to meet the wireless telegraph boys of Boston. It isn't very long since he was a boy himself. Any boy interested in wireless telegraphy should jump at the chance to meet Binns, the cracker jack operator, who stuck to his post at the wreck of the Republic.

If you live in Greater Boston and are a wireless operator, come to the BOSTON AMERICAN office at No. 90 Summer street, and see Mr. Wires, Editor, and make your application to him to go to the Boston Theatre next Tuesday night.

Make your application early, boys, so as to get early allotment of seats.

Remember, boys, you must be amateur wireless operators. The fact that there is a telegraph pole standing on the corner of the street on which you live doesn't make you a wireless boy.

PERFUME AS CLEW LEADS TO DIVORCE

CHICAGO, April 22.—The faint scent of Jockey Club perfume, elusive and doubtful, but strong enough to stir the memory of George H. Moore, wealthy real estate man of Indianapolis, Ind., is the key which led to the discovery of his wife's infatuation for another man, finally culminating in the arrest of Myrin B. Stowell and Mrs. Moore together in the Brevoort Hotel in this city. One evening two months ago when Mr. Moore was greeted affectionately at the door by his wife he noticed the odor of Jockey Club in her hair. Two days later Stowell and visited him in his office. Stowell was perfumed with Jockey Club. Two actions for divorce are expected to follow out of the arrest of Stowell and Mrs. Moore.

PROF. EARLS TO LECTURE.

To-night in a series of talks that are being held by the Mt. Pleasant Council, Knights of Columbus, Professor Daniel S. J., of the faculty of Boston College, will lecture in Palladio Hall, Roxbury. His subject will be "The Emigrants of Ireland—Brian of the Tribute."

WHITE TELLS WHY HE WON'T SEE WEDDING

PARIS, April 22.—Ambassador White explained to-day that the reason why he would not attend the Catholic service following the civil marriage of his daughter, Miss Muriel White, to Count Herman Scherr-Thoss was that he thought it only fair that the marriage of the daughter of the American Ambassador should take place in the representative American church in Paris.

The civil marriage takes places next Wednesday. On the day following there will be a religious ceremony in a Catholic church, despite the Ambassador's request that a dispensation be granted to have the religious ceremony take place in the American church on the Avenue du Alma.

"I should not utter any protest for a moment," he declared, says Ambassador White, "and I have always shown deep respect for the Catholic church. When I was Ambassador to Berlin I entertained the cardinals. I was the only ambassador so accredited to the Quirinal to entertain.

"I was anxious to have the religious ceremony take place in the American Church, which I attend regularly and where the American colony in Paris go for worship. I thought, for one thing, that this was only just to the Archbishop in Paris. There are plenty of precedents for such a dispensation."

Miss White has not embraced the Catholic faith and has no intention of so doing. On this account the refusal of Cardinal Kopp, Archbishop of Breslau, to grant the dispensation is considered all the more surprising. The bridal pair will have their future home in the Archbishop's see.

Society is greatly disappointed as the determination of the ambassador not to attend the Catholic church ceremony precludes the diplomatic and society people from being there. There will be a small reception after the ceremony at Ambassador White's residence on Rue Francois Premier.

BOSTON—1915 TALK AT THE CITY CLUB

The Boston—1915 movement will hold the attention of to-night's audience at the Boston City Club this evening. Speakers will speak are James J. Storrow, Bernard J. Rothwell, Ex-Finance Commissioner John A. Sullivan, Dr. Samuel Crothers and George Smith.

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach as they keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

BALL GROUNDS, Providence, April 22.—The whole city turned out in usher in the opening of the Eastern League season to-day. Heavy clouds overhead did not hold back the fans to any appreciable degree, and when the Grays faced the Montreal crowd the grounds were filled to overflowing with one of the most distinguished gatherings which ever graced a contest here.

The band concert and flag raising were preceded by a short game between city officials' teams, in which hot rivalry prevailed, and then the big leagners got busy.

Newspaper Charles Lewis pulled a bunch of well-known Boston fans who came down on the 1 o'clock krunch, and they rooted hard for Hugh Duffy's team to beat the Royals.

Notes of the Opening Game

Charlie Cheek certainly came up to expectations, as he had the Athletics Buffaloed for eight rounds, allowing them but three safe raps.

Bullet Jack Thoney was sent into the game because a left hander, Plank, officiated for the Connie Mack bunch, and Manager Lake wanted all the right hand batters in the fray.

The only hit out of three trips to the pan, made by Stahl came at the right moment, scoring two runs.

Harry Lord surely had his running habits on. He stole two bases, including home. Before swiping the dish Harry made several feints and then came on like a thoroughbred.

One fan in particular had a most enjoyable afternoon. When McInnes went to bat for Schlitzer in the ninth, this big rooter in the middle of the stand and yelled, "Come on Stubby, show 'em how." He was requested by several other fans to behave behave and reserve his spiel, but he held out and rooted for "Stubby." When Stubby "struck" using a term with a real single after several wild swings, Mr. Big was worse than ever.

Chech was a little wild at the outset of the contest, and gave the fans a little worry by passing two men in the initial round.

The first time Speaker went to the swatting station he laid down a neat bunt where none could get it before he had tiptoed to first.

Misplays were plentiful on both sides. Five are credited to the visitors, while Wagner is marked with one for the Red Legs.

DOVEY WINS OUT.

N. E. LEAGUE OPENS FRIDAY

It will be a great baseball day over New England to-morrow when the opening takes place all along the line.

The four cities where the fans will congregate are Brockton, Fall River, New Bedford and Haverhill which get the honor this year of starting the ball rolling.

The hot fight for the pennant last year had aroused greatest interest in the coming campaign and every city on the circuit believes it has a chance in the running.

Every team will try to stop Worcester from winning the flag for the fourth successive time and Manager Jesse Burkett knows that he will have his troubles before the fight is half over.

Worcester opens with Brockton while Lynn goes to Fall River and Haverhill to New Bedford and Lawrence goes to Hartford.

YALE TEAM MEETS TUFTS NINE TO-DAY

NEW HAVEN, April 22.—Yale, which has been running up against the toughest of propositions since the baseball season opened, expects to pull out victory to-day from Tufts, which has not been winning consistently from the top-notchers this year. Yale will use Rose and Parsons, relieving Merritt and Van Vleck for the game Saturday in Ithaca against Cornell. Yales first appearance there in 20 years.

Yale's two crippled players are still out of condition, Captain Snyder, left fielder, and Wheaton, right fielder, are still under the weather but have resumed practice. Today's lineup:

Yale—Parsons, c.; Rose, p.; Wright, 1; Lippitt, c.f.; Johnson, 2b.; Louis, 3b.; Hall, s.s.; Fee, l.f.; Bonn, r.f.
Tufts—Daniels, c.; Dickinson, 3b.; Price, c.f.; Gifford, s.s.; Wright, 1b.; McKenna, 2b.; Hoppin, l.f.; Martin, r.; Holt, p.

WRIGHT'S INVENTION.

Bring from Tontogany, O. Deacon Bill Wright of the Cleveland American league base ball club, has a new way of putting a curve intended to baffle the city batsmen who will face him. "Spit" balls and dope curves are now out of date, so profusely on the back lots in every big town that Bill thinks something rural will be the thing to fool 'em.

Therefore he has evolved the "cutter" ball. Further it is said to be a corker on curves. The liberal consumption of buttermilk is said to have developed the new wonderful baseball pitcher. To throw said curve ball one must drink buttermilk until the constitution is thoroughly saturated. Then in delivering the pitcher's look, the ball is grasped firmly between the first and middle finger of the right hand, the arm describes a graceful curve over the head and around toward third base, the left foot is raised in the air and shoved at the batsman and the deceptive stunt is sent on its way.

The curve described is said to be with out equal. The ball hovers slowly toward the plate and then drops. If control be good it is most baffling to the eye. Otherwise it may be hit. There are other names for the bend, but the one suggested seems best.

Bill is now looking for a cow that gives buttermilk, so he can install her on his farm at Tontogany, O., where hay and cows and whiskers abound.

BIG OPENING AT WORCESTER

WORCESTER, April 22 — Saturday marks the opening of the New England League season in this city. The Champs, under the guidance of Jesse Burkett, will trot onto the diamond at Boulevard Park ready to land the pennant for the fourth consecutive time. The city is all agog over the pending opening, and there promises to be a record crowd on hand when "bat 'er up" is called.

Mayor James Logan will start the game by tossing the ball into the diamond. Tim Murnane, president of the league, and Jacob C. Morse, secretary of the league, have promised to be on hand for the opening game. "Royal Rooter" Mike Regan of Boston has been invited, and he thinks enough of Burkett to forego a "first-water" game in the Hub to be on hand when festivities open here. Members of the Common Council and all the Aldermen have received invitations to attend the opening. City officials by the score have accepted "bids" to be on hand.

Burkett will head the team here for the opening game. Before the play starts members of the team will march to the fathers and Mayor Logan in the Bay State House. After the reception there a short concert will follow. Then the players and invited guests will immediately go to the city to Boulevard Park, where the customary march around the field will be made.

Of last year's team Burkett has returning five players besides himself. The old Reid remains intact, with "Eddie" Russell to left, "Ginger" Reynolds in center and Jesse himself in centre. "Tom" Logan will be back at second and Hugh McCue will watch the games from behind the bat. Hugh Bradley is still holding out for an increase in money. Rondeau, the Hub boy, is keeping Bradley's late in first center.

CURIOUS NEW FACTS ABOUT PLANTING TREES in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN show great advantage in growth from ramming earth about roots.

RENAUD TO ENTER BRONX MARATHON

Henri Renaud, winner of the recent B. A. A. Marathon race, has, according to a dispatch from New York, notified the management of the Northwestern A. C. Marathon, which will be run on June 6 over the Bronx on May 1, that he will compete in that.

Renaud is anxious to give the men whom he defeated another chance, and with the exception of Crowley, Daly and other good runners who have failed to prove a threat, one Tom Morrissey, who captured the Boston race last year, is among those already entered. Besides scores of distance runners, there will be a number of the open handicap events, which will be held while the big race is on progress.

FOOTBALL AT CORNELL.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 22.—Spring football practice of Cornell University has begun in the university armory with a sharp drill in the fundamentals of the game. The work this Spring will be in charge of Captain Tidemark, ex-Captain Walker of last year's team and Barney O'Rourke.

NEW MANAGERS ELECTED.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 22.—At a meeting of the baseball and track associations the election of officers was as follows: Manager of baseball, A. P. Monroe of Philadelphia; manager of track team, H. E. Rankin of Ohio.

TECH RELAY TEAM OFF TO BIG MEET

A change was made at the last minute in Technology's relay team that leaves tonight on the Fall River Line for the intercollegiate relay carnival at Philadelphia on Saturday. It was thought that M. A. Oettinger, the freshman who surprised everybody by qualifying for the team, would go down with the team. But A. L. Moses, who was prevented by his school work from taking the trials last Friday, was entered as substitute and given a trial Monday afternoon. He and not Oettinger is running a whose second off the time made by the freshman and against a strong wind.

The squad which will go to Philadelphia is: W. Lincoln Hall, '09, Grand Rapids, Mich.; A. L. Moses 1910, P. B. White 1911, W. C. Salisbury 1911, Manager K. B. Fernstrom '10, and Coach Frank Kanaly.

When interviewed as to the Tech men's chances of winning the race for their second consecutive year, Manager Fernstrom said that the team is in splendid shape the men were in during the indoor season, but have been doing some good work in the last week or so. He said he thought the relay team a good one and will go down to the finish. Captain Salisbury and Moses are all veteran relay men, and White has shown himself the speediest quarter-miler of the four.

MARTHON RUNNER QUITS AS WEAVER

MANCHESTER, N. H. April 22.—Coming to Manchester for the first time since he won the B. A. A. Marathon, Henry Renaud of Nashua drew his wages from the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company and quit his job as a weaver. Speaking of his plans, Renaud said that he does not intend to enter another race for at least three months.

ELBERFELD NOT BAITING EVANS

"Naturally, before breaking into the big league I had given heed a lot about baiting, and some good fellows told me that Evans was Billy Evans. The first game I was assigned to work was with New York and I was pretty nervous. In the first inning I was forced to call the "Kid" out on a very close play at second base. He was coaching on the coaching lines, and by the time I had reached my point of first base I was not the least surprised to find that Elberfeld was not on my trail, working overtime.

"Well, you big stiff, you must be blind. I have a good notion to take a punch at you just for luck," said the Kid.

Naturally, I was more or less perturbed, but I made up my mind that I would not be bluffed by any busher.

"Come right along and make good," I replied with a smile. "If I want any of your advice I will be the unluckiest pup in the league. Don't forget it."

The Kid looked at me for a minute as if surprised, then turned to first, and then started in again. I can assure you I was never more surprised in my life. All right, young fellow," he replied, "you have given me the right until you get down to the end of the season to talk about forty pounds more than the 'Kid.' Don't forget that, either, for I'll be listening."

But I was over three years ago, and since then as an umpire I have had little or no trouble with the "Kid," whom many fans regard as an awful rowdy. He is an aggressive chap, and he found to fight for his rights if the umpire tries to get the better of him, but handled properly, he is just as easy to get along with as any other player.

WORCESTER WILL HOLD HILL CLIMB

By J. C. KERRISON.

There is no truth in the rumor that the Worcester Automobile club has abandoned the intentions of holding a hill climbing contest this year. The directors of the club have announced a meet for June 12 and are going ahead tirelessly for the same despite all statements to the contrary. It is the intention of the directors to make this event compare in point of excellency and importance with the Fremont Wilkesbarre hill climb of May 30 at which a representative of the club will be present. Secretary Sawyer of the Worcester club said yesterday that he had seen the published statement to the effect that the climb had been declared off. There is no truth to the same, and he can only account for it as a revival of the rumor of some few months ago.

Charles Rose, who has always been one of the spectacular performers at the race meets at the Bay State Automobile Association's mile track in Readville, will be on hand for a match race for June 12. He has issued a challenge to Ralph Mulford, recent winner of the eleven dirt track events, which is credited with an end of speed, and last year proved that it can go some by running to secure a meeting for the races of June 12. There seems to be some likelihood of the eleven dirter securing just what he wanted, as it is said that though to be sure the race committee of the Bay State Automobile Association has as yet failed to publish a list of scheduled events for the forthcoming meet. The committee has practically held the same up on several propositions and the same will be announced in due course.

Because of the scarcity of running last year's events the Automobile Club of Springfield has decided to run off no less than a hill climb this year. Last year the club held a very successful affair on Wilbraham Hill. The entrance fees paid for the prizes, but the net receipts left for road repairs were over the fine $1,200. The club is now interesting itself in repairing the highways leading to the hill for the meeting, which is held much by Springfield motorists.

The Coupe Williams and the Coupe de l'Auto, the two races formerly held and arranged by the Automobile Club of Detroit and the Detroit News, will be held over the national route in September. The Coupe Williams, which is reserved for four cylinder cars of a piston displacement of 300 cubic inches, the limit of weight of 2000 pounds, the cars to be entered in stock chassis form without starting and finishing over Detroit, takes in Middlesex, Monpelier and Bryan, Ohio, and return, a total distance of 200 miles to be run in one day. The Coupe de l'Auto for four cylinder cars of a maximum piston displacement of 450 cubic inches, the limit of weight of 2,500 pounds, the cars to be entered in stock chassis form without starting and finishing over Detroit, takes in Middlesex, Monpelier and Bryan, Ohio, and return, a total distance of 200 miles to be run in one day. The Coupe Williams, which is reserved for four cylinder cars of a maximum piston displacement of 300 cubic inches, the limit of weight of 2,

SOCIETY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Listen! There's a general revolt on in the circles of our society elect. The younger members especially are up in arms. Miniature "Boston tea parties" are being held at every convenient meeting place, and ever the foreign society spinsters its wrath and indignation.

It's just this way: It started at a week-end house party, and has been going ever since. At the party in question were guests from Boston—several; from New York three, and from Washington, one. A discussion of cities was started—that was all well and good—Boston won out.

The question then turned to "society" in those cities—and the trouble began. One of the New Yorkers who is a student at Harvard, and who, up to this time, had been considered—yes, very favorably considered, by not a few of our prettiest buds, went on record as having said that we of the Hub are provincial and, most terrible of all, that our boasted conservatism is only a pose to cover up our stupidity.

Think of it! He says he only said it in the thick of course, he wouldn't say a thing like that seriously—even though he believed it. But it's too late—the dainty scores of the rebelling debutantes have been gifted skyward, and poor Jack is no longer in their place of vision. It's ostracism for this effete, puny and weak.

I heard just a part of the wordy discussion, and, hearing "just a part," my heart went out in sympathy to poor Jack—but when I heard all, well—I don't think I shall see him hereafter, myself.

But the saddest part of all to that some of the girls agreed with him.

THE BURDEN OF ART

The supernumerary in the drama had to enter from the right and say, "My lord, the carriage waits."

"Look here, super," said the stage manager one night, "I want you to come on from the left instead of the right after this, and I want you to transpose your speech. Make it run, hereafter, 'The carriage waits, my lord.'"

The super pressed his hand to his brow.

"More study! More study!" he groaned.—Cleveland Leader.

The Broken Spirit

By WEX JONES.

SIR GUY DE LA SPEAR was a peach
of a knight;
He spent all his time in upholding
the right.
In armorplate clothing, a sword in his hand,
In search of adventure he rode through the land.
And whenever he saw an unchivalrous
wight,
He chopped off his head, this impetuous knight.

One day as Sir Guy longed to wield his good blade
He saw a knight galloping off with a maid.
The scoundrel was spurring his charger
like sin,
When Sir Guy, at a stroke, cleft his skull
to the chin;
When the maid—to one hero for gratitude
longing—
Exclaimed: "Oh, you chump, we were only eloping!"

As Sir Guy pressed along, he met a large wagon,
And, hoop of all hoops, behind it a dragon;
A monster before which the stoutest
might quail,
But Sir Guy, with a poke, killed it dead
as a nail.
When a voice from the wagon, very wrathful and baigory,
Roared, "You cast-iron dude, you have spoilt my menagerie!"

Sir Guy, disconcerted and very near sober—
For the cost of the dragon was far from a joke—
Decided that never again would he rove,
And fashioned his armor-suit into a stove;
Sold his spear and his sword and his helmet for junk,
And the rest of his days sat around and just thunk.

June 25th.

WHY are we never honest enough to admit that when we are unhappy, the unhappiness of others is comforting.

I have heard people say:

"If I cannot be happy myself, I like to see others around me happy."

That is not true. We may wish it were, but it is not.

I have just received a letter from Edith Carrington, a cousin who lives in Boston, and who I have always thought was quite happily married.

She has a beautiful home, two beautiful children, and, as I always believed, a devoted husband.

Lately in my own desolation I have thought with envy of Edith's security and love which surrounded her life.

And now she writes that she has determined to leave her husband, that for months he had been drinking and cruelly mistreated her, and is living openly with a well-known actress.

Knowing, I will read the newspaper accounts of the divorce which she has asked me to instruct me in writing this letter that I may have the facts first from her.

She writes that she is heartbroken—life seems black and hopeless, though she doesn't know how she can go on living.

When I laid down the letter I knew that, mingled with the sincere pity and sympathy I felt for her, was something like joy, a fierce joy that her suffering was as great as mine.

If through any efforts of mine I could restore her love for her husband, I would not do so. But sacrifice I would not make to do me. But since I am powerless to help her, since not thought of losing of mine can either increase or lessen her misery, I know that her letter has brought me the first grateful consolation I have had for days.

It helps me to know that my husband has been more cruel to her than Horace has been to me.

June 27th.

TO-DAY a young and beautiful woman got on a street car and took a seat beside me.

I caught my breath at her almost dazzling beauty.

Her skin was marvellously white and clear, with a faint rose tint in her cheeks. There was not a line or blemish in her face, and it was the beauty of youth and freshness—there was no trace of powder there.

She was dressed with daring, striking simplicity—a white broadcloth suit, and a plain, white felt sailor.

I watched her with a shrinking sense of envy—almost of hatred. I seemed to feel all the lines in my own worn, faded face. I could not bear to sit beside her.

Oh, I felt so old—so plainly old!

At the next corner I got off and walked home, my heart filled with a dumb, hopeless misery.

June 28th.

WHAT vague, lifeless thoughts there are one can think that half-consciousness just before sleep.

Last night some such strange suggestion filled my mind, and I began to laugh—laughing: "I will hold them—I will remember this."

But this morning they are all gone.

I can recall only that it was something about Horace, some way or other of all my sweetness, some way or other which I could bring back my old happiness. It seemed so clear then, so easy of attainment.

And I remember I laughed—how thought that I must not forget—there was something I must do—and then it is down, and then came the feeling that I was writing it down.

And I was filled with a great sense of relief that everything would come right, and drifted off to sleep.

Of course, it could have been nothing real or tangible, and yet all morning I have been trying to recall what it was.

June 29th.

I MUST know who she is and where she lives. I cannot endure any longer these torturing doubts and suspicions. To-morrow I shall follow him.

A year ago I would have shrunk from such a thought with untold horror, but now—I am desperate now. I must know.

June 30th.

I HAVE just bought a chain black hair heavy veil. How old it makes me look!

I know now how kindly my hats are to my face with what are my ordinary shapes them.

But this straight, stiff veil gives me a severe, middle-aged look.

I have found a black skirt and coat that I have not worn for years and that I know he will not recognize. In this disguise I will follow him.

Beatrice Fairfax' Advice to Lovelorn

NOT ENOUGH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Do you thing that a young man can get married with $18 a week and be happy? I am in love with a young lady who I am sure loves me well, but I am only getting a small salary at present. But there is chance of my getting a raise soon. Have I a right to propose to her at present?

R. W.

NO, indeed, I do not think that you could manage to support a wife on the salary you are making now, but with the raise comes, and then ask the girl to marry you.

WAIT A YEAR

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-seven years old and have been keeping company with a girl nine years younger than myself. Her mother and aunt object to her keeping company with me, as they say she is too young. I have talked it over with her and she said if I waited two years that she would be mine. I love her dearly and am undecided what I will do. I am a cigarmaker by trade and can make $18 a week.

WHY not tell them that you will be willing to wait one year. She will be quite old enough by that time, and they will probably be willing that she should marry.

JUST KIDS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am sixteen years old and have been going with a boy who is now eighteen. For two years, of course, this means going skating and spending pleasant evenings together, sometimes with a crowd of others and girls our own age.

Now I like this boy very much, and I know that he likes me, but the question is: Do you think that I am too young for this sort of thing?

My parents like this boy and he helps to pass many a pleasant evening.

A COUPLE OF KIDS.

AS far as I can see, you are simply enjoying a very pleasant friendship, with your parents' consent and approval. Do not let it interfere with your work and do not behave foolishly, but enjoy your friendship in a girlish, normal manner.

ENOUGH TO MARRY ON

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man just past twenty-two years. For a little over a year I have been keeping company with a young lady two years my junior, whom I dearly love, and have asked to become my wife. I have a steady position at an average from $22 to $27 weekly. Now, this young lady admits she cares for me enough to marry, and I believe my love is returned, but she claims my salary is not enough to support us both as she wants to live. Do you think this is fair, knowing that I am not going to take the girl from a better home than I can give her, and she boards with her married sister and is practically alone in the world.

J. D.

I THINK you are making a very good salary and she is a foolish girl not to marry you. I think that if she really loves you she will come around to that idea in time. You could live very comfortably on your salary.

CALL AGAIN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Some time ago I became acquainted with a young lady about four years my junior at a social gathering. I asked her if I could call at her residence. She consented and I made an appointment to call. At first it appeared to me as if I was entirely welcome, but later in the day she received quite a few lady friends, which naturally kept her quite busy entertaining them, but when I left she did not ask me to call again. Now, what I would like to know is, shall I take it for granted that she doesn't want my company?

C. F.

YOU are too easily discouraged. Call again, and then if she treats you coolly, it will be a sign that she does not care for your friendship. She could not devote all her time to you when she had other guests to entertain.

'Spring Fever'; What It Is and How It Can Be Avoided

By DR. J. C. BAYLES.

IT IS quite usual at this time of the year to hear people who do not feel quite up to the mark talk about "Spring fever." The symptoms of this nondescript malady may be almost anything from general laziness to serious prostration.

There is a popular notion, transmitted by tradition, that between the first of April and the first of June something is wrong with the blood, and that corrective medicine of some sort is needed. In most instances this is all bosh. Those who feel ill only have Spring fever in that they are troubled with indigestion. For those who live in cities the Winter season takes every good thing.

For seven months we live and work and seek our pleasure in ill-ventilated rooms, some of the time overheated. But there is not a person on every plane of social life that the pace we take and maintain is not too much for us. Good as our meals will permit. We eat too much and too frequently, and probably consume twice as much food as can be assimilated for the replenishment of tissue waste.

Spring Finds Us Unfit

Very likely this is wrapped down with a couple of tons of alcohol in one form or another. We take only such exercise as we must, ride when we could with advantage walk, and then we often come in consequence of evening engagements and dissipations.

It is not surprising that the Lenten in the Spring, when the blood and fluids is tired, relaxed and generally unfit.

What this condition needs for its cure is not medicine, for even a tonic or gun powder would not scatter our debility so much as the cause of our indispositon, but a change of habit.

What should and should not be done the person of average intelligence who will do this matter. A few moments of serious thought will know quite as well as any physician, the first thing to do is to get the stimulus into good shape. Unless its functions are seriously deranged nature will set them right if not too much interfered with.

Heating or fasting are rarely necessary or desirable, save as emergency measures in extreme cases; but temperance in eating and drinking are beneficial in all conditions, sickness, and especially so during the period of change from cold to warm weather. It is also well to change from Winter diet to one less heating.

Remedies for Spring

A very valuable and refreshing Spring vegetable is dandelion. Stewed with a few sprigs of lemon and not overpeppered, this is as agreeable as useful, and in many respects is better than the stale trophies and cold storage fruits, which are about the only ones obtainable in the early Spring.

Instead of laxative medicines take plenty of active outdoor exercise. The results will be better. Changing the cardinal rule of the plays at least twice a day is highly beneficial. One exception to do this in a crowded and stuffy car. Deep breathing is good at any time. But if it is used when inflated by stubborn muscular exertion.

If during the Winter one has taken more coffee than is consistent with steady nerves, indulgence in this habit may be restricted, especially late at night.

Get to bed an hour or two earlier than has been the Winter habit. The benefits of this will be felt immediately, especially if the digestive organs are not expected to work overtime.

One who will follow this simple course of self-treatment and take no medicine unless by better advice than his own intelligence in such matters can supply, will find that what he mistook for "Spring fever" is really nothing but the prostration of his muscles and brain against the artificial conditions of Winter life. He has no more use for the good housewife's prescriptions of sulphur and molasses, salts and senna or boneset tea than he has for a

Brave Love

By MARY KYLE DALLAS

HED nothing but his violin—
I'd nothing but my song
But we were wed in skies were blue
And Summer days were long.
But when we rested by the hedge
The swains came and told
How their hard fared to woo and win
When early Spring was cold.

WE sometimes sapped on dewberries,
Or slept among the hay,
But oft the farmers' wives at eve
Came out to pay us play
The rare old tunes—the dear old tunes—
We could not starve for long
While my man had his violin
And I my sweet love song!

THE world has ate gone well with us,
Old man, since we were one,
Our homeless wanderings down the Nines—
It long ago was done.
But those who wait for gold and gear,
For houses and for kine,
Till youth's sweet Spring grows brown and sere,
And youth and beauty tine,
Will never know the joy of hearts
That met without a fear
When you had but your violin
And I a song, my dear.

NO PENALTY.

Shall Your Foods be Drugged or Not?

Much has been said about Benzoate of Soda in foods. It is not a matter, however, of mere press or political discussion—it is a vital health question that concerns you and your family.

Experts here and abroad, including Dr. Wiley, who has stood for the health of the American people for 25 years, have said that Benzoate of Soda in foods has an injurious effect upon the digestive organs. Benzoate of Soda is not a food. It is a tasteless, odorless drug made from coal tar.

Although used in many well-known brands of foods, the greatest danger in this drug is that it permits the use of inferior raw materials, as well as slipshod, unsanitary methods. In short, it is safe to assume that its use indicates uncleanliness or bad materials. It is never used to improve good materials. Does it mean anything to you that no manufacturer who uses Benzoate of Soda defends its use in his advertising?

Products of the best manufacturers (of whom there are many) do not contain or need Benzoate of Soda, because they are made of approved materials in clean surroundings.

Heinz "57 Varieties"—Ketchup, Sweet Pickles, Preserves, etc., etc., are prepared without Benzoate of Soda or any other drug—yet they may be purchased any time, anywhere, with absolute confidence in their keeping quality. Money returned if you are not pleased.

No person need accept a food containing Benzoate of Soda, for the law protects you by requiring its presence to be stated on the label. This statement is generally hidden in obscure type, an acknowledgement in itself of the maker's desire to conceal it. Read all type on labels; it is for you to choose whether food brought to your own table, or served to you on a public table, shall be drugged or not.

H. J. HEINZ COMPANY.

BONITA MAKES 'ROUGH HOUSE' IN A HOTEL

CINCINNATI, April 22.—The Sinton hotel is recovering today from a dizzy skewell whirl given it by Bonita, the actress, after Wine, Women and Song went on the financial rocks at the Walnut Street theatre.

Bonita, whose real name is Bonita Delander, is a Southern beauty, with all the ardent temperament of the sunny southland. The show came near going to pieces in St. Louis, but managed to get across. opened Monday night, but closed Tuesday night when the company struck for back salaries. According to the police court records and the allegations of the Hotel Sinton people, where the company was putting up, Bonita's final schedule was as follows:

Can Box Like a Man.

She made merry in her room with some four friends till the other guests kicked.

Sent a bell-boy for more whiskey, but was refused as the bar was closed.

Objected to being ordered off. Night Clerk Hettich to keep quiet or get out.

Resisted Hettich and Night Watchman Adam Matz.

"That woman has science. She can box like a man and then some," says Matz. "When she attacked the elevator boy she struck out like a man and foisted as though she was in the prize ring. It took all that I could do to handle her."

Bonita was locked up for disorderly conduct, but was bailed out that night.

The next morning her lawyer paid $5 fine and costs in the police court. Bonita not appearing.

Bonita departed to New York.

Sixteen Empty Bottles.

She left behind in her room at the Hotel Sinton a worn-out pair of slippers and a note scrawled.

"Goodbye, Nella. Good luck. God bless you both, my pals."

This note may refer to Nella Palmer, a member of the company, and a chum of Bonita.

The chambermaid also found a row of sixteen empty whisky bottles in the corridor outside Bonita's room, and a row of pails which had held cheap suds.

ROSE CLEVELAND VISITS IN BOSTON

Miss Rose Cleveland, sister of the late Grover Cleveland, is in Boston to-day, visiting Miss Evelyn Anker of No. 260 Beacon street, who during the Summer months is her neighbor at Seven Hundred Acre Island, Me. Unless she goes abroad Miss Cleveland expects to spend a few weeks later with Mrs. Grover Cleveland at her Summer home, Tamworth, N. H.

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS IN HOT FIGHT

UTICA, N. Y., April 22.—The resignation of former State Senator J. Lovell Johnson, a member of the Governor's Council, as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Utica State Hospital, caused as great a sensation today as did the charges of Miss Margaret Cannon that patients in that institution were being drugged to death. Johnson resigned because four of the trustees were about to vote down the minority report of Hamlin R. Bennett, president of the Common Council, which in part was responsible for the charges made by Miss Cannon, the discharged probationary nurse.

Bennett's Charges.

Bennett's report, made public today says in part:

"I believe that there are many causes for the public criticism of Burbank Hospital and that decidedly radical and prompt action upon the part of the trustees of this institution is needed."

He recommends the abolition of the present method of electing trustees and would have a board elected by the people, city government or appointed by the Mayor, he said.

"There exists among the people of the city of Fitchburg an almost total lack of confidence in this institution."

He recommends the abolition of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees and of the other committees, which, he said, the matron, Miss Ada M. Whyte, he removed and that a superintendent who can win full power to manage the hospital. He demands the resignation of Superintendent George A. Meiver be requested, for the best interest of all concerned and advises a board of women visitors.

Views of Majority.

Mayor M. Fred O'Connell read the report of the majority of the executive committee. It sums up as follows:

"There was little or no justification for bringing these charges, and it is especially to be regretted that it should have been deemed necessary to give them such wide and harmful publicity."

After a stormy session of the Board of Trustees, during which Councillor Johnson resigned, the board adjourned, without taking any action on either report.

FEAR FISHERMAN LOST.

GLOUCESTER, April 22.—Edward Gardner of No. 8 Elwell court has not returned from his off-shore trip for fish and fears are entertained that he has been lost.

Gardner left port in a 12-foot dory, and it is believed the boat was overwhelmed in the seas.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; NORTH BUTTE IS HAMMERED

State Street—There were several features in the local stock market this forenoon and the curb exchange furnished its quota as well. North Butte was again under pressure and was hammered down to 69¼ from an opening at 64, with subsequent recovery to 62. Southwestern Development was the curb feature. The support of the past week or ten days was withdrawn and the bear's had it all their own way for a spell. They succeeded in breaking the price from an opening at $1.04½ to 69 cents, but it recovered to 77 cents from this. Wire houses were the principal sellers. Burton brokers allowed the market to take care of itself, but still have matters in hand.

American Telephone.

American Telephone had a point and one-half advance, touching 142¼. New York continues a buyer and it is estimated that three-fourths of yesterday's business in this stock in the market was for that account. The stock is selling at its highest in three years and sales are at 141 to 142 from 135 to 160 for it. There is no doubt that control is drifting to New York. The convertible bonds were also strong. These bonds are now being converted into stock at the rate of about $1,000,000 per day.

Other Market Features.

The weakness of North Butte was a weakening factor and mining shares as a whole were lower. Utah Copper was off 1¼, and United States Smelting common reached over a point to 45¾. Amalgamated sold at 75⅜ to 75¾, ex-dividend in this highest in three years and Anaconda sold at 155 from 155 to 160 for it. There is no doubt that control is drifting to New York. The convertible bonds were also strong. These bonds are now being converted into stock at the rate of about $1,000,000 per day.

Other Market Features.

The weakness of North Butte was a weakening factor and mining shares as a whole were lower. Utah Copper was off 1¼, and United States Smelting common reached over a point to 45¾. Amalgamated sold at 75⅜ to 75¾, ex-dividend in this market. New Haven & Hartford rose to 170¾. Western Telephone touched 10¾ and the preferred 81.

Curb Exchange Market.

Outside of Southwestern Development, Bay State Gas was the feature. It broke to 61 cents, later rallying to 67 cents. Chief, a new curb stock, was active, advancing to 1⅜. Davis-Daly was firm at 61⅛@3-16. Outside of these prices changes were slight.

Railroad Earnings.

Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn, quarter March 31, gross $132,880, against $150,920 last year; net $5,066, against $5,901; deficit $5,138, against $7,943.

Lehigh Valley, March, gross $2,808,914, against $2,510,894; net $1,021,470, against $833,383.

Financial Notes.

Boston Elevated and Massachusetts Electric earnings the April 19 triple holiday did not come up to those of a year ago, as both were then reaping the benefit of heavy riding which followed the Clinton fire.

Replies to sixteen letters to Kansas give the average wheat condidtons 93.

TELEPHONE IS STOCK LEADER

By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Activity and strength characterized the early trading in Wall street to-day. American Telephone & Telegraph was the feature, with a new high record price of 142¾, a net gain of two points. Harriman shares were also strong. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific advancing about one point each. Although Reading was fractionally higher, transactions were not as large as they have been for the past two weeks. Other stocks that showed strength and gain were New York Central, St. Paul and the Rock Island issues.

American Can common was the leader in the group of specialties. Transactions in it were unusually large and resulted in a new high record for this movement of 70¾. Copper was higher, as was Utah Copper, a gain of 1¼.

On the New York curb market prices were irregular. In Boss, Nipissing and Kerr Lake were steady. Considerable movement was noted in the gold shares of which Goldfield Consolidated was the leader.

HOW WE CAME TO HAVE EYES AND EARS—Scientific explanation of these organs is given in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

Mining News.

The Guggenheims are now said to have a new small company in the making at Salt Lake. The Boston Consolidated Copper & Gold Mining Company and Guggenheim Exploration Company, but large ownership in the American Smelting Securities Company A and B now stands approximately 50 per cent in the Boston Consolidated and 50 per cent in the American Smelting & Refining Company.

By purchase of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie property, the East Butte Copper Company becomes a producer of copper at the rate of 6,000,000 pounds per annum. President Gross has declared a dividend of 3 cents per share at Butte and 5 cents per pound delivered and sold in New York.

WALL STREET NEWS OF INTEREST TO INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, April 22.—Erie Railroad will issue $30,000,000 of bonds on the modified plans authorized by the Public Service Commission. It is now evident that the Erie management considered the situation desperate enough a few weeks ago to make public the alternative presented by the possibility of the Railroad Commission refusing to authorize the issue of new bonds. That Erie was already practically in default to a sufficient degree to make a receivership not only possible but probable, were decisive the cause of the commission relenting at the last moment. It may now be taken for granted that this fact lay in the dilemma of the Erie management and explains why Everybody in Wall Street is gratified to see Erie out of the troubles for a short time again. Erie now has clear sailing until the $12,000,000 of bonds certificates become up for refunding, which should be much less difficult as a result of the favorable position now occupied by its securities. Meanwhile it will not be surprising if the management to threaten drive consequences which may follow a refusal by the public to order to extend these obligations.

E. H. Harriman suddenly retired more than once to the country. He distinctly announced that he was not ill and would not be back in Wall street for a week. Despite his health would have nothing to do with it. In order to prevent any misunderstanding it should be understood that Harriman is going to interpose with the idea of preventing any action by the Public. The largest bond issue ever put out by an American railroad, the New York authorities naturally not fully informed regarding the Harriman lines. Therefore they will have nothing to do with it. Harriman is said to feel that he is able to carry the $50,000,000 bonds and strategy of Union Pacific get into the market.

Several other prominent financiers are in London visiting over the possibility of a combine of the first importance. They will be consulted as to terms that can be made with the Government as a result of the visit. Financial interests are also said to be considering the possibility of a combine that would include all kinds of crops.

The only black spot on the horizon is persecution and experts must confess that with the result that soon or late the laws of the gold will be seriously felt, even though the American banks have the privilege of printing $300,000,000 of money based upon steel rails at the ratio of twenty-eight to one. The abundance of money and the cheap interest rate should not blind the public to the fact that the gold standard has been misplaced in America. It will make no difference until some day a condition of chaos will suddenly develop. That is why the big people are making the bull market in Wall street so persistently. There is no need of being frightened now, for a boom in business is on the way. The time to be careful when it will be unsafe to make money and any one who is not prepared for that very reason they should be burned into the heads of every business man of the country now so that he can never say that the existing was caught him unaware.

Among the strong features is Denver & Rio Grande, being a reminder of the good times that are coming for the Gould stockholders.

An announcement of sale of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton may be expected any day now. The road is one of the [illegible] lines to be wound up in the [illegible] and is a big thing here. The demand for the common stock of the road has been a feature for some months and a rise of an import [illegible] is expected in the near future. The refinancing of the statement of a subsidiary of the C. H. & D. is more likely than heretofore.

Steel companies, both independents and the trust, report a distinct improvement in business. Hilliard says recently arrived from the West say that they have never seen as much ploughing done at this season of the year. This insuring very large planting of all kinds of crops.

S. W. D.

To Charles C. Clapp & Co.

We read your public advertisement in yesterday's newspapers and were much amused. We are pleased to know you are now so rich you are refusing to execute the public's orders and are returning them their money.

For your information and enlightenment let us tell you that your attitude in refusing to execute orders in a stock which is listed on an exchange of which you and we are members is ridiculous, and if it was assumed by any other member would, in our opinion, be promptly considered a violation of our rule: "Conduct detrimental to the best interests of the Boston Curb." If our exchange is a one man proposition we will not long retain the confidence and respect of the promoters and the public, but if our exchange belongs to ourselves, and we have brains and intelligence enough to govern ourselves, with equal privileges to all and special favors to none, our embryonic organization will grow and expand to proportions beyond the conception of any of us.

There was a time, perhaps, when you might have purchased control of Southwestern Development at a nominal price. It was your Opportunity, but you missed it. The control is now owned by us and our associates, and it cannot be bought by you or anyone else for less than $5 to $10 a share, if you trade with us today, and later our price may be $15 to $20.

You have advertised that your specialties are Lawson Mexican, First National, Yukon and Bay State Gas. We suggest that you start in and make good on them in the same way we are making good in our little campaign. In this you will have our hearty co-operation and that of the entire Boston Curb. You will then be entitled to an audience. Our success has resulted from hard work and a square deal to everybody, and we are fairly entitled to full credit for what we have done, which has all been in the open and above board, and one of the biggest pieces of advertising for the Boston Curb which it has ever received.

50c to $2.50

After our great and memorable campaign, when we put people into Bay State Gas at 10 to 50 cents a share, and then got them out at $1.50, hundreds said to us: "If you ever hear of an opportunity like that again, be sure and let us know."

Well, the opportunity has come, and we herewith "pass you the tip." It reminds us of John J. Ingalls' great poem:

OPPORTUNITY.

Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, Love and Fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and lands I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake!—if feasting, rise before
I turn away! It is the hour of Fate!
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to Failure, Penury and Woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not and I return no more!

Buy Southwestern Development Co.—S. W. D. We believe it is a great speculative purchase, and is likely to jump quickly to $1.50 to $2.50 a share. Some will laugh at this, and say it is impossible to put a stock from 10 cents to $2.50 a share. Some laughed at us when we told them to buy Gas at 10 to 50 cents.

It's your opportunity.

THE SOUTHWESTERN DEVELOPMENT CO. was organized for the purpose of acquiring and developing mining properties in the Southwestern portion of the Mexican section of the United States, and especially in Mexico. It is capitalized for $500,000, being 500,000 shares, par value $1 a share, full paid and non-assessable. 121,785 shares are in the treasury. The Federal Trust Company of Boston is Registrar, and the stock is listed in New York and Boston.

The following properties have been acquired:

Group No. 1—Nine claims in the Marias Mountain district, Riverside County, California. The values are contained in veins or stratas of high-grade ore, carrying largely copper, some silver and some gold. From appearances it is the opinion of good mining men these promise to develop to great proportions at depth. At present there is a good road building, which will, in the near future, come into close proximity to the property, thereby greatly enhancing its value.

Group No. 2—This is known as the Casa Vieja group, consisting of four properties, comprising collectively about 200 acres, in the district of Hermosillo, State of Sonora, Mexico. Numerous fissure veins intersect these 200 acres at various points. Samples of the ore taken by the company's engineers show good values, carrying gold, copper and some silver, a large proportion of which will average about $50 per ton, and some much higher. It can be seen that the Spaniards worked down to the water level by their crude methods and that good pay ore was developed by them. The company's engineers are of the opinion that these properties are very valuable.

At a meeting of the directors of this company, held on April 17th, the second quarterly dividend of 2% was declared, payable on and to stockholders of record April 20. A much larger dividend might have been declared, but the directors deemed it prudent to keep the stock on an 8% basis for the present, leaving the balance to go to surplus account.

The stock of the company is now largely in the hands of investors, all of whom purchased it at par, $10 a share. In view of greatly increased earnings, the company now withdraws all outstanding offerings at $10, and offers

Orders will be filled in the order received, and for any number of shares—even as low as one share—as we desire as many stockholders as possible. We submit that the advance information which our stockholders received last week on a stock which increased very materially was worth all it cost them for the stock they hold in our company—and judging from the manner in which some of them took advantage of the information, it was worth thousands of dollars to them.

We are a live crowd, always turning up new opportunities for ourselves and our stockholders, and once we take on a proposition we never abandon it until we have made good. We have met opposition at every turn of the road, but it only makes us more determined to "get there," and all the world loves to see this fighting, aggressive spirit. Youth of Turkey and "The Sick Man."

It Is Not the Poll of Abdul Hamid They Want—But the Death's Head of Ignoble Tyranny.

The calm, collected energy of the Young Turks is not merely news, it is an outcropping of the ledge of history. The action of the drama now moving before the eyes of the world—the deliberate advance of the twenty thousand to the gates of Constantinople—is a spectacle that bears the stamp of consequence.

The life of the old Mohammedan despotism is a spent steed, "panting to its goal." To-day it is made plain in the dispatches that the Sick Man of Europe is to have no more seasons of illusory convalescence. He is going to die.

"Have you brought the head of the old man? We cannot negotiate if you come without that head!"

It is not the poll of poor old Abdul Hamid, but the death's head of an ignoble tyranny—the gibbering wraith of the Caliphate—that the youth of Turkey will inexorably seize and set upon its pike.

The political romance that stirred the soil of Western Europe a century ago, and that received its clearest inspiration from the American Revolution, has at length got its gospel preached on the shores of the Bosphorus.

"Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow!"

The diplomacy of European cabinets and the force of the allied Powers have exhausted themselves in generations of fruitless effort to bestow upon the Turks the gifts of order and progress. The thing could not be done.

But now an idea and a spirit entering into the heart of Turkey have done what forests of foreign bayonets could not accomplish. The youth of the Near East has determined to befriend itself. It is to be saved by its own faith.

This is the ineffaceable Fact of these times. There may be fluctuations and recoils, retreats and advances. But the miracle of political liberty has been wrought in the body of the Ottoman Empire, and, lo! old things have become new.

This young Turkey is kinsman to the "Young Italy" of Mazzini and Garibaldi, and to that "Young Europe" that carried the evangel of national regeneration through the Continental revolutions of the mid-century past.

It calls itself "young"—even in the mouths of gray-beards like the grim Mukhtar Bey—for liberty is always young.

This is what America has done for Europe — it has made old Europe young.

A beautiful and poetic requital would it be if now, out of the most senile and decrepit of European nations, this miraculous youthfulness should return to recuperate the spirit of the West.

If old Turkey is young enough to send a-glimmering the graft and privilege of a thousand years, it would seem that Young America might better the instruction.

You See, Speculators MAKE the Laws

The Bread-Hungry Only OBEY the Laws

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Men that should be in jail with stripes on their backs have been amusing themselves speculating in wheat. Some of them are said to have made millions, and others of them have lost. MAY THEY ALL LOSE IN THE END AND LOSE HEAVILY.

These men, as individuals, are not to be especially blamed. They are following the gambling game as they see it. They gamble with the bread upon which life depends, as the old-fashioned ruler gambled with the actual lives of men on the battlefield.

These gamblers in wheat use ingenuity to increase the price of bread and to increase the hunger of the poor.

And they are held up to admiration "as American business men" and energetic types of modern civilization.

While the criminals gamble, buying and selling wheat that they neither take nor deliver, flour gets dearer, the loaf of bread gets smaller, and its price increases. The gamblers have the intense excitement and the profits. The poor have the anxiety and the final loss.

Do you know why conditions are as they are?

It is because the big men that gamble MAKE your laws, and the little men that worry about the price of bread, and the mothers that think of the number of mouths around the table, ONLY OBEY THE LAWS, they have no voice in their making.

What has the father of a family to say about the actual lawmaking? He is a unit, a separate individual, he works and votes with one party or the other. And at the top, both parties get together, and they use his vote, AND WORK HIM.

Such laws as they make are intended for themselves. Laws that pretend to protect the little man, the father with the vote that he doesn't know how to use, and the mother with no vote at all, are drawn for the convenience of the big people.

For instance, these wheat gamblers are not violating the law in Illinois. Illinois has a law against speculation with intent to increase the cost of necessities of life. The criminal law of Illinois declares that one who corners the market, "or attempts to do so in relation to any grain, or other commodity, is guilty of a crime. And all contracts made in violation thereof are gambling contracts and void, as well as all options to buy where there is no intent actually to accept delivery of the grain contracted for."

Under the law speculating in grain and trying to increase the price is a crime. The punishment is a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not over a year, or both.

Interesting lawmaking that is. The man who steals a loaf of bread MUST go to prison. Unless he goes to prison the law is not satisfied. No FINE for him.

The man who makes it difficult for hundreds of thousands of children to get their bread and increases the burden of poverty can escape with the payment of a fine of one hundred dollars.

That law in Illinois and similar laws elsewhere in our country ARE MERE JOKES, HARMLESS PLEASANTRIES OF THE PROSPEROUS SPECULATIVE ELEMENT.

Don't you suppose the gamblers in wheat, the enemies of poor people, could be reached if men in office WANTED to reach them? The lawmakers will tell you that if you tried to arrest and punish the wheat speculators you would have TO PROVE that they have broken the law. It wouldn't be difficult to prove that.

Every business man in Chicago, without hesitation, would take his oath that the wheat speculator is endeavoring at all cost TO INCREASE THE PRICE OF WHEAT. If you put twelve men on the jury, those twelve men and the judge on the bench and every sane man in the courtroom would know that the accused gambler was guilty.

But, as we have said, the speculator MAKES the laws, and the little man only OBEYS them.

There is no trouble in getting PROOF when a desperate man steals a loaf of bread. Not so long ago they put a man in jail because he took a bottle of milk to take home to his wife, sick and without food. The facts were known, still he went to jail.

This will be a different and a better country when its inhabitants shall be able to put in jail not only the little hungry man, but the big conscienceless villain.

They do those things better in France, where the people have managed to impress themselves upon government.

Over there speculation in the staff of life with the object of increasing its cost is forbidden, and the law is OBEYED, because violation of it would mean a long term in prison at hard labor.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By William F. Kirk

LAST nite Pa came hoam with sum books under his arm. There was ten (10) books & it was all Pa cud do to carry them.

Wat have you there? sed Ma. That is a set of new books wich I have purchased, sed Pa, it is the works of Mister de Maupassang. It only cost twenty (20$) dollers, of wich I have paid fifty cents.

I am vary glad you have took to reeding, sed Ma. Perhaps it will improve yure mind. That is what these books are for, sed Pa, to improve the mind, but I dident git them for me, I got them for you. Hevings knows, sed Pa, my mind is improved cauff, in fack, too much.

My mind is improved as much as yures, sed Ma, & in a way it is improved moar, beekaus I have moar time to study, being at hoam much moar. Read the books yureself, sed Ma.

So Pa went into the li-brary & red one (1) of the books & then he caim out of the library & sed to Ma & me Well, my future is assured From now on, I shall rite short stories. I have rote two (2) to start with, Pa sed, after having read sum of Mister de Maupassang's works. Here is the first one, Pa sed:

It was raining in Paris. A tall & graunt man was walking along the street & he ran into a girl & staggered back, beekaus the girl was fat & he was very graunt, & the Paris rain had made him week & coald. Men Dew! sed the man. It is my daughter. I littel thought to see you here. The daughter looked at the man strainegly. & I littel thought to see you here, eether, she sed. I thought I wod have to look in ever so many moar cafays beefore I found you. Go hoam, go hoam! Your wife, my mother, is waiting thare for you. She wants you to pay the C. O. D. in wich jest caim from the steam. Then the two (2) went homeward through the rainy Paris Streets.

Well, sed Pa, what do you think of it? Do you think Mister de Maupassang cud have did any better?

I dount think he cud have did that partikler story any better, sed Ma, seven if he had cared to. Wat is the other yarn wich you have rote.

Well, this other yarn, Pa sed, is much on the saim order, & yet the motive is different. Here is how it goes:

There is nothing moar butiful in the whole world than Spring in Normandy. The green fields, the surging billows, the tall, strong fish wives with ther strings of freshly caught pike & pickerel, the lowing kine wich travels o'er the sands of Dee, the pashunt watch dog wich guards well the Englishmen's hoam, the lordly mountains with ther loads of eternal snow, the butcher boy with his cart, all of this maiks a perfect blend wen it is spring in Normandy. On a perfect May afternoon, two lovers was wandering along the surf-washed shoar. He was tall & clean limbed as a rhinoceros, she was short & plump like a apple. "Iwereat," she sed to him, "what is the trubbel today." "Only this," he answered, "I have you & you have no job." Then all was silence, save the shreek of a stormy petrel as it swept along on the Normandy wind.

Well, sed Pa, wen he had got through reeding it, why dount you say sumthing about my stories.

I cant say anything, sed Ma, beekaus it is nearly bed time, & I never like to quarl with you at bed time.

Then you dount like my stories? Pa sed to Ma. Oh, yes, I like them, sed Ma, but as I was saying, it is nearly bed time. Then Pa went to bed & ma took his stories & put them in the bottom of the bird cage.
